Literature Culture and Masculinity after World War II examines the social and psychic upheaval of demobilisation. It maps the rapid transition from wartime regimentation to individual responsibility from intense homosociality to heteronormative expectations from normativity to disability and from uniformed masculinity to domestic citizenship. This book considers some of the many ways in which popular culture of the time sought to mediate these difficult transitions exploring films popular fiction memoir and biography. In particular the book explores how technology was imagined as a new space of masculine becoming and how disability was written represented and assimilated. Through a focus on popular narrative this book explores the modes of masculinity promoted as ideally suited to national reconstruction and tries to make sense of a culture of rehabilitation that could not name or know itself as such.

Rising Ground Philip Marsden, 2016-03-25 The travel writer and Cornwall native explores his home on a journey by foot to Land's End in this fascinating and hauntingly evocative memoir. Literary Review A Guardian Financial Times Observer and Scotsman Book of the Year. In 2010 Philip Marsden moved with his family to a rundown farmhouse in Cornwall, England. From the moment he arrived Marsden was fascinated by the landscape and the traces of human history all around him. Wanting to experience the place more fully he set out to walk across Cornwall to the evocatively named Land's End. Rising Ground is a record of that journey but it is also so much more a beautifully written meditation on place, nature and human life that encompasses history, archaeology, geography and the love of place that suffuses us when we finally find home. Firmly in a storied tradition of English nature writing that stretches from Gilbert White to Helen MacDonald, Rising Ground reveals the ways that places and peoples have interacted over time from standing stones to footpaths, ancient habitations to modern highways. What does it mean to truly live in a place and what does it take to understand and honor those who lived and died there long before we arrived. A fascinating study of place and its meaning.
