Johnston, 2011-08-02 An indispensable tool for high schoolers undergraduates or even amateur enthusiasts Writing World War II teaches the craft of history writing by example In a series of thoughtful essays Sylvie Murray examines American involvement in World War II and how it has subsequently been portrayed by historians Murray addresses three broad topics the prelude to war the war effort on the home front and the atypical experiences of soldiers in an effort to recapture the mixed emotions of the time and the larger forces shaping public opinion Her work challenges the traditional notions of the greatest generation and the good war and explores viewpoints that have been largely ignored in popular retellings The book serves a dual purpose critiquing the approaches of various historians while at the same time offering Murray's own writing as a model for constructing a persuasive essay But as Murray is rightly critical of one-sided historical arguments Writing World War II offers another layer of analysis and instruction throughout At various points in the book her fellow historian Robert D Johnston chimes in to assess Murray's prose demystifying her techniques while helping you to become more critical of all sorts of historical writing including your own

Phonographic World and Commercial School Review ,1888 Stenographer and Phonographic World ,1907 AI and Creative Writing Graeme Harper, 2026-01-01 AI and Creative Writing explores the transformations risks and possibilities that are brought about by the interaction of artificial intelligence and creative writing Offering a variety of opinions and thoughts

this book directly considers AI's impact on our creative writing practices. More generally, it references the impact of AI on types of human knowledge and varieties of human understanding. The focus is on what currently is as well as on what is emerging, while the wider context is the emergence of AI over time, especially since World War II, noting particularly the work of Alan Turing. AI in relation to creative writing refers mostly to the training of Large Language Models (LLMs) that is to the use of chatbots such as ChatGPT. This collection, however, is not so much concerned with specific chatbots. The discussion here is far more about our actions, reactions, and expectations, focusing on the ways in which AI and creative writing communicate and might in the future communicate, and why, and to what ends. The result is a stimulating guide to what might or might not be on the horizon for AI's impact on creative writing.

This text is about writing instruction as a journey teachers and students embark on together. The focus is on learning how to teach writing through specific teaching and learning structures found in the Writing Studio: mini-lessons, teacher and peer conferencing, guided writing, and sharing, celebrating, and broadcasting writing. Pedagogical features include teaching structures and strategies, Problematizing Practice, classroom scenarios, assessment resources, and a Companion Website. Because a teacher who views him or herself as a writer is best positioned to implement the Writing Studio, a parallel text Becoming a Writer gives readers space to consider who they are as a writer, their personal process as a writer, and who they might become as a writer.
