Affect Theory and Early Modern Texts Amanda Bailey,Mario DiGangi,2017-03-22 The first book to put contemporary affect theory into conversation with early modern studies this volume demonstrates how questions of affect illuminate issues of cognition political agency historiography and scientific thought in early modern literature and culture Engaging various historical and theoretical perspectives the essays in this volume bring affect to bear on early modern representations of bodies passions and social relations by exploring the role of embodiment in political subjectivity and action the interactions of human and non human bodies within ecological systems and the social and physiological dynamics of theatrical experience Examining the complexly embodied experiences of leisure sympathy staged violence courtiership envy suicide and many other topics the contributors open up new ways of understanding how Renaissance writers thought about the capacities pleasures and vulnerabilities of the human body Mindful Aesthetics Chris Danta, Helen Groth, 2013-11-07 In the last few decades literary critics have increasingly drawn insights from cognitive neuroscience to deepen and clarify our understanding of literary representations of mind This cognitive turn has been equally generative and contentious While cognitive literary studies has reinforced how central the concept of mind is to aesthetic practice from the classical period to the present critics have questioned its literalism and selective borrowing of scientific authority Mindful Aesthetics presents both these perspectives as part of a broader consideration of the ongoing and vital importance of shifting concepts of mind to both literary and critical practice This collection contributes to the forging of a new interdisciplinarity to paraphrase Alan Richardson s recent preface to the Neural Sublime that is more concerned with addressing how rather than why we should navigate the increasingly narrow gap between the humanities and the sciences
