Chess Review, 1947 How and Why Does Spatial-Hearing Ability Differ among Listeners? What Is the Role of Learning and Multisensory Interactions? Guillaume Andéol, Brian D. Simpson, Ewan A. Macpherson, 2016-08-29 Spatial hearing ability has been found to vary widely across listeners A survey of the existing auditory space perception literature suggests that three main types of factors may account for this variability physical factors e g acoustical characteristics related to sound localization cues perceptual factors e g sensory cognitive processing perceptual learning multisensory interactions and methodological factors e g differences in stimulus presentation methods across studies However the extent to which these and perhaps other still unidentified factors actually contribute to the observed variability in spatial hearing across individuals with normal hearing or within special populations e g hearing impaired listeners remains largely unknown Likewise the role of perceptual learning and multisensory interactions in the emergence of a multimodal but unified representation of auditory space is still an active topic of research A better characterization and understanding of the determinants of inter individual variability in spatial hearing and of its relationship with perceptual learning and multisensory interactions would have numerous benefits In particular it would enhance the design of rehabilitative devices and of human machine interfaces involving auditory or multimodal space perception such as virtual auditory multimodal displays in aeronautics or navigational aids for the visually impaired For this Research Topic we have considered manuscripts that present new methods or review existing methods for the study of inter individual differences present new data or review existing data concerning acoustical features relevant for explaining inter individual differences in sound localization performance present new or review existing psychophysical or neurophysiological findings concerning spatial hearing and or auditory perceptual learning and or multisensory interactions in humans normal or impaired young or older listeners or other species discuss the influence of inter individual differences on the design and use of assistive listening devices rehabilitation or human machine interfaces involving spatial hearing or multimodal perception of space ergonomics A Hidden-target Model Lloyd S.
