The Sacred Spring:

Sacred Spring DiVorán Lites, 2012-12-04 Elaine Donovan's forebears have owned the Sacred Spring campground in Central Florida for generations and Elaine has become an environmentalist because of her love of nature and of the property. Duty weighs heavily on the twenty-three-year-old Elaine as she now finds herself responsible not only for the decrepit campground but for her young brother and aging Grandfather as well. When she meets developer Hank Schaefer she senses he may have answers for her but discovers that his scheming female partner Reva North has other plans for the property. Elaine then is compelled then to find her own inspiration that will preserve and fulfill her hopes and dreams. Corinth in Context Steve Friesen, Dan Schowalter, James Walters, 2010-06-14 This volume is the product of an interdisciplinary conference held at the University of Texas at Austin. Specialists in the study of inscriptions, architecture, sculpture, coins, tombs, pottery, and texts collaborate to produce new portraits of religion and society in the ancient city of Corinth. The studies focus on groups like the early Roman colonists, the Augustales, priests of Augustus, or the Pauline house churches on specific cults such as those of Asklepios, Demeter, or the Sacred Spring, on media e.g. coins or burial inscriptions, or on the monuments and populations of nearby Kenchreai or Isthmia. The result is a deeper understanding of the religious life of Corinth contextualized within the socially stratified cultures of the Hellenistic and Roman periods. From Barbarians to New Men : Greek, Roman, and Modern Perceptions of Peoples from the Central Apennines Emma Dench, 1995-11-02 The Central Apennine peoples represented alternately as decadent and dangerous snake charming barbarians or as personifications of manly wisdom and virtue as austere and worthy new men were important figures in Greek and Roman ideology. Concentrating on the period between the later fourth century BC and the aftermath of the Social War, this book considers the ways in which Greek and Roman perceptions of these peoples developed, reflecting both the shifting needs of Greek and Roman societies and the character of interaction between the various cultures of ancient Italy. Most importantly, it illuminates the development of a specifically Roman identity through the creation of an ideology of incorporation. The book is also about the interface between these attitudes and the dynamics of the perception of local communities in Italy of themselves, illuminated by both literary and archaeological evidence. An important new contribution to modern debates on Greek and Roman perceptions of other peoples, the book argues that the closely interactive conditions of ancient Italy helped to produce far less distanced and exotic images than those of the barbarians in fifth-century Athenian thought. White Wolf Woman, 1992 A collection of thirty-eight transformation myths collected from the oral traditions of Native Americans showing the powers of certain animals as they move between human and nonhuman worlds. The Golden Bough Sir James George Frazer, 1912 The Red-figure Pottery Sharon Herbert, 1977 Inferior clays and glazes unsuited to the red-figure style means that the indigenous production of red-figure vases in Corinth was very limited. However, for about 75 years in the middle of the 5th century BC Corinthian potters tried to imitate the Athenian fashion and this book catalogues 186 pieces of their work The author discusses the reasons for the production of Corinthian red figure even in limited quantities Six painters are identified as responsible for at least half the known pieces Thirteen deposits provide chronological evidence to supplement that of the painting style The volume serves to bring forward a small but significant segment of the non Attic pottery industries and should stimulate interest in other unpublished unreported examples All items in the catalogue are illustrated in photographs line drawings are used to demonstrate details of technique Records of the Past Henry Mason Baum, Frederick Bennett Wright, George Frederick Wright, 1906 Inscriptions and the Epigraphic Habit ,2023-10-30 Inscriptions are a major feature of the Greek and Roman worlds as inhabitants around the Mediterranean chose to commit text to stone and other materials How did the epigraphic habit vary across time and space Once adopted how was the epigraphic habit variously expressed The chapters of this volume analyze the epigraphic cultures of regions cities and communities through both large scale analyses and detailed studies From curse tablets in Britain to multilingual communities in Judaea Palestine from Greece to Rome to the Black Sea and across nearly a millennium the epigraphic outputs of cities and individuals underscore a collective understanding of the value of inscribed texts Innovative Vaulting in the Architecture of the Roman Empire Lynne C. Lancaster, 2015-11-12 This book studies six vaulting techniques employed in architecture outside of Rome and asks why they were invented where they were and how they were disseminated Most of the techniques involve terracotta elements in various forms such as regular flat bricks hollow voussoirs vaulting tubes and armchair voussoirs Each one is traced geographically via GIS mapping the results of which are analysed in relation to chronology geography and historical context The most common building type in which the techniques appear is the bath demonstrating its importance as a catalyst for technological innovation This book also explores trade networks the pottery industry and military movements in relation to building construction revealing how architectural innovation was influenced by wide ranging cultural factors many of which stemmed from local influences rather than imperial intervention Additional resources including extensive searchable databases with bibliographical data and colour illustrations available at www.cambridge.org/vaulting The Peoples of Ancient Italy Gary D. Farney, Guy Bradley, 2017-11-20 Although there are many studies of certain individual ancient Italic groups e g the Etruscans Gauls and Latins there is no work that takes a comprehensive view of each of them the famous and the less well known that existed in Iron Age and Roman Italy Moreover many previous studies have focused only on the material evidence for these groups or on what the literary sources have to say about them This handbook is conceived of as a resource for archaeologists historians philologists and other scholars interested in finding out more about Italic groups from the earliest period they are detectable early Iron Age in most instances down to the time when they begin to assimilate into the Roman state in the late Republican or early Imperial period As such it will endeavor to include both archaeological and historical perspectives on each group with contributions from the best known or up and coming archaeologists and historians for these peoples and topics The language of the volume is English but scholars from around the world have contributed to it This volume covers the ancient peoples of Italy more comprehensively in individual chapters and it is also distinct because it has a thematic section Lectures on the Religion of the Semites William Robertson Smith,1907 The Archaeological Journal ,1890 Prehistoric America Stephen Denison Peet,1899 The Overland Monthly ,1900 Lectures on the Religion of the Semites Smith,1894 Book VIII.
