

No dreams too big...
no dreamers too small!

The Hollywood story goes like this:

In 1954, a major studio had to cancel the plan to use child actress Lee Remick in a celebrated January film. Instead, the studio cranked up a parade, dressed, fun film and talent agencies worldwide to assemble a cast of 250 midgets. The studio checked them all into the miserable, steel Culver Hotel—where, according to legend, they staged the biggest little beachhead in show business history.

"Somewhere, there's a movie in what happened there," agreed filmmakers Fred Zinnemann, Edward H. Zwick, and Steve Barkin as they drew past the old Culver. The movie, of course, is Under the Rainbow. But even the most extravagant (and) town here won't prepare you for the outrageous goings-on you're about to behold.

Meanwhile, hit the Culver Hotel like a miniature tornado—and they're not alone. There's a small-scale Grimmey spy searching for his far East counterpart, U.S. Secret Service agent Bruce Thoms, watching his junior G-man wife with a half-wit assassin, and Anne Clark, the beautiful young talent coordinator up to her waist in midget mayhem.

Cheryl Chase, Carrie Fisher, Eve Arden, and Adam Arkin romp through this bizarre tall tale at headlong pace. Best of all are the professional players gathered to re-create that legendary Lillian Hellman script: Billy Barty as mini-foat Otto Krimpling, Cork Holtzman as the over-the-rainbow dreamer Willie, Pat Hingle as himself (at 2'10"), the smallest star on the big screen, and a crew of extras recruited with the help of Barty's Little People of America organization.

How close is Under the Rainbow to historical fact?

"Here, we had fun!" insists actor Jerry Mayer, on hand for the original event. "But most of the time, after working in heavy costumes under hot lights, we were too tired to cause all the trouble we look could be!"

Maybe so. But the legend lives on...and Under the Rainbow brings it back to glorious, full-color life.
