Oester,2014-11-09 The purpose of this book to relate the hardships that people must endure after losing a loved one or sustaining a devastating loss This book will help people to understand and prepare for the inevitable death of those we love on a spiritual and emotional level By acknowledging our own mortality and the death of our physical bodies no longer will we harbor the fear that death holds for us The soul does not die it lives on as can be experienced through meditation If we seek to find the answers to dispel our fears we will find them

Understanding Death Gourishankar Patnaik, Soumendra Dev Mahanti, Purnamasi Patnaik, 2011-12 Death as a phenomenon has always baffled mankind No one wants to die yet every moment we are dying In fact the medical science has proven that every cell in the human body degenerates and there is a constant regeneration This degeneration or decay is nothing but death In fact death as a phenomenon scares us because we have the limited understanding of life Death is an absolutely necessary process for life to be It is not the enemy it is the friend And it is not there somewhere in the future it is here now It is not going to happen it has been always happening With each exhalation it happens a little death a small death but because of fear we have put it in the future The mind always tries to avoid things which it cannot comprehend and death is one of the most incomprehensible mysteries The following pages is the authors understanding of death which is a constant companion of a practicing physician as well as his readings about what the great philosophers and religion has commented on this intriguing topic The topics are a part of collection of lectures taken by the principal author during his discourses on the topic of understanding death

Breaking the Social Taboo of Dying, Death and Grief. An Appeal to Institutions of the Social Work Field Lea-Sophie Hirschfeld, 2022-08-25 Academic Paper from the year 2022 in the subject Social Work grade 15 language English abstract In my theory based thesis I will deal with the hypothesis Every person regardless of cognitive abilities is able to mourn to understand death and they should not be denied that A differentiated conclusion should be an appeal to social institutions in particular to break the taboo on the topics of dying death and grief and to show possible solutions for raising awareness with regard to work or dealing with people with cognitive disabilities and dealing with the end of life In the beginning I will explain the terms death and disability in context of their social taboo in order to then go into more detail about their connection and to emphasize the motive of the thesis This will be followed by a more extensive discussion which based on Piaget s stage model of cognitive development and Wittkowski s concept of death will use appropriate practical examples in the form of participatory observations to demonstrate that people with a wide range of cognitive abilities are capable of understanding death In addition I would like to discuss the extent to which personal fear of being confronted with death and possibly other factors motivate employees of social institutions and relatives to exercise the aforementioned reluctance towards the clients Among other things I would like to use Franke s work to justify the individual and social benefit of further taboo breaking Finally I will summarize my findings regarding the need for change in the attitude towards death in social work and show possible solutions Ultimately the thesis should serve as an appeal to the reader and in particular to social institutions to question the personal and professional handling of the topics of dying death and grief and invite them to deal with it more intensively in order to gain a more conscious approach and thus to be able to support people with cognitive disabilities in a more sensitive and individual manner

Discussing Death Gretchen C. Mills,1976 How To Think About Death Robert M Johnson,2021-10-08 How should we think about death What happens to us when we die At some point in life this seems an inescapable question quite as though It searches us out In this book we will think through some of the most basic ideas about death Heaven Reincarnation Nothingness and the idea that death is what it appears we die become a corpse and eventually disappear What we see when we study such ideas is a very fundamental distinction Some ways of thinking about death conceive of it as a transition some as an ending In both Eastern and Western thought there are major traditions that conceive of death as a transition The ideas of heaven and hell rebirth and reincarnation are examples of such thinking And there is also the idea that once dead we merge with all things much like a drop of water in the ocean Or that at death we cease to exist altogether In all these approaches our attention is directed toward what comes after we die I invite you to think about death differently Suppose we focus instead on the idea that death is an ending We do not continue This is a moral perspective since it puts in focus the life as a whole There is a popular phrase that often comes up in discussions about death death is a part of life It is meant as a corrective to common anxieties about dying a reminder of the biological function of death of how one living thing gives rise to another and so how life and death are intertwined It is intended to discourage us from thinking of death as the enemy of life If I were to suggest a catchphrase it would be death is an ending not a transition Consider that the message of this book
