Values and Intentions J. N. Findlay,2014-11-20 Professor Findlay in this book originally published in 1961 set out to justify and to some extent carry out a material value ethic ie A systematic setting forth of the ends of rational action The book is in the tradition of Moore Rashall Ross Scheler and Hartmann though it avoids altogether dogmatic intuitive methods It argues that an organised framework of ends of action follows from the attitude underlying our moral pronouncements and that this framework while allowing personal elaboration is not a matter for individual decision The relations connecting our fundamental value judgements with one another and the frames of mind behind them are not rigorously deductive but are sufficiently compelling to be called logical Something of a transcendental deduction of a well ordered family for our basic heads of valuation is both possible and necessary The work is further critical of the notion of obligation which has been extended far beyond legal contracts and understandings The book also contains a chapter on religion

Abstract: International marketers are trying to encourage positive electronic word of mouth (eWoM) about their products and services. The question of whether consumers in different cultures respond differently to eWoM is critical if marketers are to leverage the potentially global power of eWoM. The central objective of this study is to critically evaluate whether espoused national cultural values at the individual level influence the effect of eWoM on consumers' purchase intention. Prior cross-cultural eWoM research mostly studied culture at the country level. This paper draws on perspectives in cultural psychology and cross-cultural research that argue that individuals espouse national cultural values to different degrees. Therefore, predicting the influence of culture on individuals' behaviour necessitates to assess cultural values by personality tests at the individual level of analysis. Yet no research can sufficiently answer the question of how individual-level culture may influence the effect of eWoM on purchase intention. The present research addresses this gap by measuring espoused national cultural values of power distance, uncertainty avoidance, individualism, collectivism, and masculinity/femininity at the individual level of analysis and investigating their influence on the effect of eWoM on purchase intention. An experiment using a repeated measures design was conducted with 100 subjects from 18 countries. The results reveal that, as expected, consumers' purchase intentions are significantly higher after reading eWoM than after reading factual information on a company website. Further, the results show that, contrary to expectations, this effect is not significantly influenced by the national cultural values an individual espouses. This implies that traditional market segmentations based on culture are of limited relevance in the online marketplace. Theoretical and managerial implications are discussed.
