Smart Regulation

Frederick Alexander Leete

Smart Regulation:

Smart Regulation Neil Gunningham, Peter Grabosky, Peter N. Grabosky, Darren Sinclair, 1998 Despite decades of policy experimentation the ultimate goal of efficient and effective environmental regulation has continued to elude policy makers and regulatory theorists The less than satisfactory performance of both government and market approaches to environmental protection has led to the introduction of a broader range of policy mechanisms such as education information based strategies economic instruments and self regulation Yet these various policy instruments are usually treated as alternatives to one another rather than as complementary Drawing from studies in North America Europe and Australia the authors show how the design of complementary combinations of policy instruments tailored to particular environmental goals and circumstances will produce more effective and efficient policy outcomes They also confront the critical problem of how at a time of fiscal constraint and small government environmental policy might still be designed in ways that improve outcomes both for the environment and for business

Innovation in Energy Law and Technology Donald Zillman, Lee Godden, LeRoy Paddock, Martha Roggenkamp, 2018-03-16 There are few existential challenges more serious in the twenty first century than energy transition As current trends in energy production prove unsustainable for the environment energy security and economic development innovation becomes imperative Yet with technological challenges come legal challenges Zillman Godden Paddock and Roggenkamp assemble a team of experts in their field to debate how the law may have to adapt to changes in the area What regulatory approach should be used How do we deal with longer term investment horizons and so called stranded assets such as coal fired power stations And can a form of energy justice be achieved which encompasses human rights sustainable development goals and the eradication of energy poverty With a concept as unwieldy as energy
