Cultivating Professional Resilience in Direct Practice Jason M. Newell, 2017-09-26 Overwhelming empirical evidence indicates that new social workers particularly those going into child welfare or other trauma related care will discover emotional challenges including the indirect or secondary effects of the trauma work itself professional burnout and compassion fatigue However the newly revised CSWE Educational Policy and Accreditation Standards EPAS does not mandate the inclusion of content related to self care in social work curriculum or field education In a textbook that bridges the gap between theoretical and pragmatic approaches to this important issue in human service work Jason M Newell provides a potential resolution by conceptualizing self care as an ongoing and holistic set of practice behaviors described as the key to professional resilience To address the effects of trauma related care on direct practitioners Newell provides a comprehensive competency based model for professional resilience examining four key constructs stress empathy resilience and self care from a range of theoretical dimensions For those who work with vulnerable populations the tendency to frame self care solely within organizational context overlooks the importance of self care in domains beyond the agency setting Alternatively he uses a framework grounded in the ecological systems perspective conceptualizing self care as a broader set of practice behaviors pertaining to the whole person including the physical interpersonal organizational familial and spiritual domains of the psychosocial self Alongside professional self care practices at the organizational level Newell makes a case for the pragmatic role of recreational activities time with family and friends physical health spirituality and mindfulness The application of a comprehensive approach to self care practice has potential to empower practitioners to remain resilient and committed to the values mission and spirit of the social work profession in the face of trauma Research for the Health Professional Angela N. Hisson, Jennifer E. Lape, Diana M. Bailey, 2014-11-26 This classic text explains the hows and whys of conducting and writing a research project Step by step guidance shows you how to select topics how to select the appropriate methodology and theoretical framework how to collect analyze and interpret the data and how to write present and publish your project The Complete Guide to Yoga for Fitness Professionals Debbie Lawrence, Conrad Paul, 2014-07-31 A yoga guide for fitness professionals and instructors outlining the different stages to yoga practice acknowledging the physiological principles history and how to teach it Neural Mechanisms Underlying Movement-Based Embodied Contemplative Practices Laura Schmalzl, Catherine E. Kerr, 2016-07-05 Relative to the extensive neuroscientific work on seated meditation practices far less studies have investigated the neural mechanisms underlying movement based contemplative practices such as yoga or tai chi Movement based practices have however been found to be effective for relieving the symptoms of several clinical conditions and to elicit measurable changes in physiological neural and behavioral parameters in healthy individuals An important challenge for neuroscience is therefore to advance our understanding of the neurophysiological and neurocognitive mechanisms underlying these observed effects and this Research Topic aims to make a contribution in this regard It showcases the current state of the art of investigations on movement based practices including yoga tai chi the Feldenkrais Method as well as dance Featured contributions include empirical research proposals of theoretical frameworks as well as novel perspectives on a variety of issues relevant to the field This Research Topic is the first of its kind to specifically attempt a neurophysiological and neurocognitive characterization that spans multiple mindful movement approaches and we trust it will be of interest to basic scientists clinical researchers and contemplative practitioners alike
