Studies In Translation:

Handbook of Translation Studies Yves Gambier, Luc van Doorslaer, 2010-10-28 As a meaningful manifestation of how institutionalized the discipline has become the new Handbook of Translation Studies is most welcome The HTS aims at disseminating knowledge about translation and interpreting to a relatively broad audience not only students who often adamantly prefer user friendliness researchers and lecturers in Translation Studies Translation but also scholars experts and professionals from other disciplines among which linguistics sociology history psychology Moreover the HTS is the first handbook with this scope in Translation Studies that has both a print edition and an online version The HTS is variously searchable by article by author by subject Another benefit is the interconnection with the selection and organization principles of the online Translation Studies Bibliography TSB Many items in the reference lists are hyperlinked to the TSB where the user can find an abstract of a publication All articles are written by specialists in the different subfields and are peer reviewed Studies in Translation Ed. Mohit K. Ray, 2008 Why Translation Studies Matters Daniel Gile, Gyde Hansen, Nike Kocijan, Pokorn, 2010-01-01 Whether Translation Studies really matters is an important and challenging question which practitioners of translation and interpreting raise repeatedly TS scholars many of whom are translators and interpreters themselves are not indifferent to it either The twenty papers of this thematic volume contributed by authors from various parts of Europe from Brazil and from Israel address it in a positive spirit Some do so through direct critical reflection and analysis arguing in particular that the engagement of TS with society should be strengthened so that the latter could benefit more from the former Others illustrate the relevance and contribution of TS to society and to other disciplines from various angles Topics broached include the cultural mediation role of translators issues in literary translation knowledge as intellectual capital globalization through English and risks associated with it bridging languages mass media corpora training the use of modern technology interdisciplinarity with psycholinguistics and neurophysiology Translation Studies at the Interface of Disciplines João Ferreira Duarte, Alexandra Assis Rosa, Teresa Seruya, 2006-10-25 Translation Studies has been defined in terms of spatial metaphors stressing the need for disciplinary border crossings with the purpose of borrowing different approaches orientations and tools from diverse academic fields Such territorial incursions have resulted in a more thorough exploration of the home province as this volume is designed to show The interdisciplinary nature of the venture arises out of the multiplicity of terrains involved and the theoretically motivated definition of the object itself Translation has been perceived as communication in context hence the study of translated texts as facts of target cultures means that they need to be investigated within particular situational and sociocultural environments an enterprise which necessarily requires the collaboration of various disciplines This volume has grown out of a conference held at the University of Lisbon in November 2002 and collects a selection of papers that focus on the crossdisciplinarity of Translation Studies offering new perspectives on the current space of translation on the importation and redefinition of theories methodologies and concepts for the study of translation and on the complex interplay of text and context in translation creating dynamic interfaces with Sociology Literary Theory Cultural Studies Discourse Analysis Cultural History among other disciplines
