Value Contrasts and Consensus in Present-Day Europe ,2013-11-28 People's fundamental values can be conceived of as conceptions of what is desirable. They influence their selection from available modes, means and ends of action. Because of the societal importance of values they deserve scholarly attention. This volume inquires into the values present day Europeans cherish by empirically analyzing the data of 2008-2010 wave of the European Values Study and explaining the consensus and contrasts in value orientations found. The contributors to this volume try to capture the diversities and similarities in value orientations between contemporary European countries in a range of life spheres by unravelling context and composition effects. They are in search of evidence that either country level factors such as institutional arrangements or the composition of the populations of countries in terms of gender, age, socio-economic status, religion etcetera have the greatest impact. By doing so they paint the moral landscapes of Europe today.

Value of Innovation Irina Farquhar, Kent Summers, Alan L. Sorkin, 2007-11-01 Investigates the impact of information technology, biogenetic and pharmacological innovation on individuals' quality of life, safety, individual and system health care utilization, occupational and environmental health and formulary decision making and costs.

The Rebirth of Anthropological Theory Stanley R. Barrett, 1992-12-15 Innovative and often controversial, Barrett's study ranges over the entire scope of anthropological theory. It provides a fresh interpretation of the history of theory and mounts an alternative perspective built around dialectics that is eminently suitable to post-colonial anthropology. He argues that anthropological theory has failed to be cumulative. It has been characterized by oscillation and repetition: theoretical orientations have appeared and disappeared only to be discovered once again. Addressing numerous conceptual contradictions which have never been resolved, he introduces novel concepts such as salvage theory and backward theory and argues that in many respects anthropological theory resembles the structuralists' interpretation of myth. Social life, he asserts, is inherently contradictory although concealed by numerous mechanisms, most of which reinforce the status quo. Attacking the illusion of simplicity which has dominated positivistic approaches and the outdated identification of anthropology with non-Western primitive and tribal societies, Barrett contends that power and privilege everywhere should be the basic concerns of anthropological inquiry.

Migration and Health in a Small Society Albert F. Wessen, 1992 Between 1965 and 1975 a large proportion of the population of Tokelau, a group of three tiny isolated atolls in the tropical South Pacific, migrated to New Zealand where they became part of a cosmopolitan urban society. By 1985 two thirds of all Tokelauans lived in New Zealand. This book traces the experience of the Tokelauans, both migrant and non-migrant, during the period 1965-85. The analysis is interdisciplinary, drawing upon historical, ethnographic, sociological and epidemiological materials. Topics discussed include the ecology and history of Tokelau, the nature of Tokelauan culture and society, the problems of adaptation faced by migrants to New Zealand and their efforts to develop a viable Tokelauan community there the impact of modernizing influences upon atoll society changes in the health status of both migrant and non migrant Tokelauans and the relationship of social change to the health of the population Special attention is paid to the hypothesis that the migrants adaptation to modern urban society would lead to increased incidence of such chronic conditions as hypertension coronary heart disease asthma and diabetes The work serves as a valuable and in many ways unique source of information for public health professionals medical anthropologists sociologists and specialists in development policy Communications Research and Cultural Values Wimal Dissanayake, Abdul Rahman b Mohd Said, 1983
