Under the Hawthorn Tree Marita Conlon-McKenna, 1990 During the Great Famine in Ireland in the 1840s three children are left alone and in danger of being sent to the workhouse so they set out to find the great aunts they remember from their mother's stories Under the Hawthorn Tree Marita Conlon-McKenna, 2015-03-11 The first book in the famine trilogy with the original cover from 1990 Under the Hawthorn Tree is Ireland's top selling children's book and a classic for young readers worldwide Ireland in the 1840s is devastated by famine When tragedy strikes their family Eily Michael and Peggy are left to fend for themselves Starving and in danger of the dreaded workhouse they escape Their one hope is to find the great aunts they have heard about in their mother's stories With tremendous courage they set out on a journey that will test every reserve of strength love and loyalty they possess Also available on DVD Fragmented Memories and Screening Nostalgia for the Cultural Revolution Jing Meng, 2020-08-19 Fragmented Memories and Screening Nostalgia for the Cultural Revolution argues that films and TV dramas about the Cultural Revolution made after China's accession to the WTO in 2001 tend to represent personal memories in a markedly sentimental nostalgic and fragmented manner This new trend is a significant departure from earlier films about the subject which are generally interpreted as national allegories not private expressions of grief regret or other personal feelings With China entering a postsocialist era the ideological conflation of socialism and global capitalism has generated enough cultural ambiguity to allow a space for the expression of personalized reminiscences of the past By presenting these personal memories in effect alternative narratives to official history on screen individuals now seem to have some agency in narrating and constructing history At the same time such autonomy can be easily undermined since the promotion of the sentiment of nostalgia is often subjected to commodification Sentimental treatments of the past may simply be a marketing strategy Underplaying political issues is also a safer way for films and TV dramas to secure public release in mainland China Meng concludes that the new mode of representing the past is shaped by the current sociopolitical conditions these personal memories and micro narratives can be understood as the defining ways of remembering in China's postsocialist era. Fragmented Memories and Screening Nostalgia for the Cultural Revolution takes a comprehensive look at contemporary screen depictions of the Cultural Revolution. The book convincingly ties close readings of the works analysed with broader social and cultural phenomena that already are hot topics of study and debate offering something original while also being closely engaged with existing scholarship. Jason McGrath, University of Minnesota. Breaking through the tired dichotomy between personal and collective narratives: individual memory and grand history this refreshing book sheds much light on film memories of the Cultural Revolution in the post-socialist millennium. In a limpid and engaging style Jing Meng probes memory's nostalgia and imbrication with the collective destiny and critiques the personal focus aligned with neoliberal economy and commodification. Ban Wang, Stanford University.
