 and interaction Drawing from a breadth of perspectives and contemporary analysis it equips students and professionals from varied backgrounds with the tools to understand discuss and apply these concepts to their own experiences of intercultural interaction A Journey to Freedom Franco Imoda,2000 Can psychology and religion engage in constructive dialogue Has psychology a contribution to make in Christian formation These are some of the issues addressed in this volume marking 25 years of the Institute of Psychology of the Gregorian University The twenty articles which make up the work offer essential insights into how psychology and religion can meet and interact constructively at the level of theory and of practice These insights are presented in the context of an overall Christian anthropology which continues to develop and to further refine its practical applications The contributions are divided into four sections theory and method dialogue between psychology and other disciplines applications in different cultures and concrete experiences of applying a psychologically informed Christian anthropology in the educational setting The balanced approach presented in this work makes it both a serious instrument of study and a valuable point of reference for the educator Its constant reference to a Christian conception of the person will help avoid short sighted pragmatism

Chinese Organizations in Sub-Saharan Africa Terence Jackson, Lynette Louw, Dev K. Boojihawon, 2020-11-09 Trade between China and Africa is increasing year on year while the West increasingly debates the nature and implications of China's presence Yet little research exists at the organizational and community levels While western press reporting is overwhelmingly negative African governments mostly welcome the Chinese presence But what happens at the management level How are Chinese organizations run What are they bringing to communities What is their impact on the local job market How do they manage staff How are they working with local firms This book seeks to provide a theoretical framework for understanding Chinese organizations and management in Africa and to explore how their interventions are playing out at the organizational and community levels in sub-Saharan Africa Based on rigorous empirical research exploring emerging themes in specific African countries this book develops implications for management knowledge education and training provision and policy formulation Importantly it seeks to inform future scholarship on China's management impact in the world generally on Africa's future development and on international and cross-cultural management scholarship Primarily aimed at scholars of international management with an interest in China and or in China in Africa this important book will also be of great interest to those working in the area of development studies international politics and international relations
