Vespar Verbal Spatial And Reason:

VESPAR Dawn W. Langdon, Elizabeth K. Warrington, 1995 VESPAR is a test of reasoning designed to measure fluid intelligence in neurological patients with more accuracy than has hitherto been possible. It comprises six sections: three matched sets of verbal and spatial reasoning problems each dedicated to one of three forms of inductive reasoning: odd one out, by analogy, and series completion. The VESPAR overcomes the constraints of classical tests of reasoning by using simple stimuli that are more readily accessed by patients who have suffered physical or cognitive impairments as a result of neurological illness. It does so by not timing performance, by using high frequency stimulus words, and by using visually distinct spatial stimuli. A multiple choice format has been adopted to reduce both short term memory load and output demands on the patient. The reasoning items are all novel, thus the contribution of stored knowledge and procedures are reduced to a minimum. The assessment of patients for neurodiagnostic and neurorehabilitation needs will be facilitated. Patients with motor disabilities or speech production impairments will be less handicapped than on other tests by the VESPAR's requirement for simple pointing response. A measure of fluid intelligence can be obtained in patients with aphasia on the spatial section of the test and in patients with visual and spatial problems on the verbal section. The VESPAR's low reliance on learnt knowledge makes it a good indicator of innate ability, relatively unaffected by educational experience. Thus, although originally developed for adult neurological populations, the test is suitable for a wide range of clinical, educational, occupational, and research applications.

Verbal and Spatial Reasoning Test VESPAR. D W. Langton, 1995 Brain and Spinal Cord Atrophy in Multiple Sclerosis Robert Zivadinov, 2005. Intended for general neurologists as well as specialists in multiple sclerosis (MS) and imaging, this book provides a comprehensive discussion of central nervous system (CNS) atrophy involving the brain and spinal cord, and both the chapter authors and topics have been selected to provide state-of-the-art reviews. Key issues covered in the book include pathogenesis and its mechanisms, technical aspects of MRI measurement, the relationship between CNS atrophy and other MRI metrics, clinical relevance, the association with neurobehavioral and genetic immunologic components of MS, and the effects of disease-modifying therapies on tissue atrophy. Pros and cons of different technical approaches are discussed critically. Special attention is devoted to CNS atrophy as a clinically relevant biologic marker of the MS disease process.

Education and Learning Jane Mellanby, Katy Theobald, 2014-05-12. Education and Learning offers an accessible introduction to the most recent evidence-based research into teaching, learning, and our education system. It presents a wide range of references for both seminal and contemporary research into learning and teaching. It examines the evidence around topical issues such as the impact of Academies and Free Schools on student attainment and the strong international performance of other countries. It looks at evidence-based differences in the attainment of students from different socioeconomic and ethnic backgrounds and explores the strong international performance of Finnish and East Asian students. It provides accessible explanations of key studies that are supplemented with real-life case examples.
