Veterans and Agent Orange Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Promotion and Disease Prevention, Committee to Review the Health Effects in Vietnam Veterans of Exposure to Herbicides, 2004-04-02 From 1962 to 1971 US military forces sprayed herbicides over Vietnam to strip the thick jungle canopy that helped conceal opposition forces to destroy crops that enemy forces might depend on and to clear tall grasses and bushes from the perimeters of US base camps and outlying fire support bases Mixtures of 2,4-dichlorophenoxyacetic acid (2,4-D), 2,4,5-trichlorophenoxyacetic acid (2,4,5-T), picloram and cacodylic acid made up the majority of the herbicides sprayed Agent Orange was a 50/50 mixture of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T. At the time of the spraying, 2,3,7,8-tetrachlorodibenzo-p-dioxin (TCDD) one form of dioxin was an unintended contaminant from the production of 2,4,5-T and was present in Agent Orange and some other formulations sprayed in Vietnam. In 1991 because of continuing uncertainty about the long-term health effects on Vietnam veterans of the herbicides sprayed, Congress passed Public Law 102-4, the Agent Orange Act of 1991. In response to the request from the VA IOM, the service of the Committee to Review the Health Effects in Vietnam Veterans of Exposure to Herbicides that was responsible for Update 2002 to address the question of presumptive period and respiratory cancer. The charge to the committee was to undertake a review and evaluation of the evidence regarding the period between cessation of exposure to herbicides used in Vietnam and their contaminants 2,4-D, 2,4,5-T and its contaminant TCDD, cacodylic acid and picloram and the occurrence of respiratory cancer.

Veterans and Agent Orange National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee to Review the Health Effects in Vietnam Veterans of Exposure to Herbicides (Eleventh Biennial Update), 2019-01-20. From 1962 to 1971 the U.S. military sprayed herbicides over Vietnam to strip the thick jungle canopy that could conceal opposition forces to destroy crops that those forces might depend on and to clear tall grasses and bushes from the perimeters of US base camps and outlying fire support bases. Mixtures of 2,4-dichlorophenoxyacetic acid (2,4-D), 2,4,5-trichlorophenoxyacetic acid (2,4,5-T), picloram and cacodylic acid made up the bulk of the herbicides sprayed. The main chemical mixture sprayed was Agent Orange, a 50/50 mixture of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T. At the time of the spraying, 2,3,7,8-tetrachlorodibenzo-p-dioxin (TCDD) the most toxic form of dioxin was an unintended contaminant generated during the production of 2,4,5-T and so was present in Agent Orange and some other formulations sprayed in Vietnam. Because of complaints from returning Vietnam veterans about their own health and that of their children combined with emerging toxicologic evidence of adverse effects of phenoxy herbicides and TCDD, the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering and Medicine was asked to perform a comprehensive evaluation of scientific and medical information regarding the health effects of exposure to Agent Orange, other herbicides used in Vietnam and the various components of those herbicides including TCDD. Updated evaluations were conducted every two years to review newly available literature and draw conclusions from the overall evidence. Veterans and Agent Orange Update 11 2018 examines peer-reviewed scientific reports concerning associations between various health outcomes and exposure to TCDD and other chemicals in the herbicides used in Vietnam that were published between September 30, 2014 and December 31, 2017 and integrates this information with the previously established evidence database. Improving the Presumptive Disability

Decision-Making Process for Veterans Institute of Medicine, Board on Military and Veterans Health, Committee on Evaluation of the Presumptive Disability Decision-Making Process for Veterans, 2008-05-15. The United States has long recognized and honored the service and sacrifices of its military and veterans. Veterans who have been injured by their service whether their injury appears during service or afterwards are owed appropriate health care and disability compensation For some medical conditions that develop after military service the scientific information needed to connect the health conditions to the circumstances of service may be incomplete When information is incomplete Congress or the Department of Veterans Affairs VA may need to make a presumption of service connection so that a group of veterans can be appropriately compensated The missing information may be about the specific exposures of the veterans or there may be incomplete scientific evidence as to whether an exposure during service causes the health condition of concern For example when the exposures of military personnel in Vietnam to Agent Orange could not be clearly documented a presumption was established that all those who set foot on Vietnam soil were exposed to Agent Orange The Institute of Medicine IOM Committee was charged with reviewing and describing how presumptions have been made in the past and if needed to make recommendations for an improved scientific framework that could be used in the future for determining if a presumption should be made The Committee was asked to consider and describe the processes of all participants in the current presumptive disability decision making process for veterans The Committee was not asked to offer an opinion about past presumptive decisions or to suggest specific future presumptions The Committee heard from a range of groups that figure into this decision making process including past and present staffers from Congress the VA the IOM veterans service organizations and individual veterans The Department of Defense DoD briefed the Committee about its current activities and plans to better track the exposures and health conditions of military personnel The Committee further documented the current process by developing case studies around exposures and health conditions for which presumptions had been made Improving the Presumptive Disability Decision Making Process for Veterans explains recommendations made by the committee general methods by which scientists as well as government and other organizations evaluate scientific evidence in order to determine if a specific exposure causes a health condition Flashback Penny Coleman,2007-04-15 With the recent wars in Afghanistan and Iraq once again America s men and women who have seen war close up are suddenly expected to return seamlessly to civilian life In Flashback Penny Coleman tells the cautionary and timely story of posttraumatic stress disorder in the hope that we can sensitively assist those veterans who return from combat in need of help and the families struggling to support them Federal Register ,2007-06-12 Disposition of the Air Force Health Study Institute of Medicine,Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice,Committee on the Disposition of the Air Force Health Study,2006-05-25 The Vietnam War was fought in a jungle environment that provided cover to the enemy and made battlefield observations difficult so military strategists used herbicides to remove foliage along key roads and waterways defoliate areas surrounding enemy bases and supply and communications routes and improve visibility in heavily canopied forests The last three decades have seen an ongoing debate about the effects of this military use of herbicides and the potential adverse long term health effects on those who may have been exposed to these herbicides In response to these concerns the Air Force Health Study AFHS was created to investigate the potential relationship between the herbicides used and the health problems of those exposed Disposition of the Air Force Health Study assesses the scientific merit of the AFHS operations and procedures and makes recommendations for improvement Damp Indoor Spaces and Health Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Promotion and Disease Prevention, Committee on Damp Indoor Spaces and Health, 2004-10-01 Almost all homes apartments and commercial buildings will experience leaks flooding or other forms of excessive indoor dampness at some point Not only is excessive dampness a health problem by itself it also contributes to several other potentially problematic types of situations Molds and other microbial agents favor damp indoor environments and excess moisture may initiate the release of chemical emissions from damaged building materials and furnishings This new book from the Institute of Medicine examines the health impact of exposures resulting from damp indoor environments and offers recommendations for public health interventions Damp Indoor Spaces and Health covers a broad range of topics The book not only examines the relationship between damp or moldy indoor environments and adverse health outcomes but also discusses how and where buildings get wet how dampness influences microbial growth and chemical emissions ways to prevent and remediate dampness and elements of a public health response to the issues A comprehensive literature review finds sufficient evidence of an association between damp indoor environments and some upper respiratory tract symptoms coughing wheezing and asthma symptoms in sensitized persons This important book will be of interest to a wide ranging audience of science health engineering and building professionals government officials and members of the public
