Welcome To The Wired World:

Virtual Worlds Jean-Claude Heudin, 2003-05-20 1 Introduction Imagine a virtual world with digital creatures that looks like real life sounds like real life and even feels like real life Imagine a virtual world not only with nice three dimensional graphics and animations but also with realistic physical laws and forces This virtual world could be familiar reproducing some parts of our reality or unfamiliar with strange physical laws and artificial life forms As a researcher interested in the sciences of complexity the idea of a conference about virtual worlds emerged from frustration In the last few years there has been an increasing interest in the design of artificial environments using image synthesis and virtual reality The emergence of industry standards such as VRML 1 is an illustration of this growing interest At the same time the field of Artificial Life has addressed and modeled complex phenomena such as self organization reproduction development and evolution of artificial life like systems 2 One of the most popular works in this field has been Tierra designed by Tom Ray an environment producing synthetic organisms based on a computer metaphor of organic life in which CPU time is the energy resource and memory is the material resource 3 Memory is organized into informational patterns that exploit CPU time for self replication Mutation generates new forms and evolution proceeds by natural selection as different creatures compete for CPU time and memory space

Virtual Worlds ,1998 Mutual Funds Update ,1996
Media Asia ,2002 Electronic Commerce Elias M. Awad, 2005 This briefer text gives students an overview of managerial and technical concepts of e commerce The material follows a life cycle approach to show students the entire process of e commerce from vision or strategic planning to fulfillment for delivery of products and services with the goal of customer satisfaction Net Pioneers 1.0 Dieter Daniels, Gunther Reisinger, 2009 Net Pioneers 1.0 discusses media art history with a new interdisciplinary look at the historical social and economic dynamics of our contemporary networked society The hype around Net based art began in the early 1990s before the Internet had become a commodity It developed in skeptical parallel to the rise and decline of the new economy But why does this chapter of art history appear to end so suddenly Is it that the idea of Net based art involving itself in a revolutionary spirit in a networked society failed One might equally well argue that it was far too successful simply to become another media art genre Looking today at the social aesthetic and conceptual approaches of the early 1990s presented in this book it is clear that most of them have in fact come true if in ways other than intended The contributions cover a wide variety of topics ranging from art scholarly methodological debate Bentkowska Kafel Kuni source critical analysis Reisinger archiving exhibition and analytical practice Ernst London Paul Sakrowski to media philosophical aspects Ries and technical and artistic innovations Daniels R sum de l diteur

Fictional Realities/real Fictions Mateusz Borowski, Małgorzata Sugiera, 2007 The collection of essays Fictional Realities Real Fictions Contemporary Theatre in Search of a New Mimetic Paradigm tackles the problem of fictionality and reality in contemporary theatre practice and playwriting It approaches this hotly debated issue in a larger context of the theories of theatrical and dramatic mimesis The volume provides an answer to the most recent developments in performative arts such as the widespread use of new media technologies the popularity of site specific productions and the flourishing of various post dramatic forms of expression The phenomena scrutinized in this collection call into question the basic dichotomy between the fictional and the real on which the theory and practice of the Western theatre has been based right from its inception However due to their extremely heterogeneous character they pose a considerable problem for researchers and teachers who still do not find a widely applicable methodology for the analysis of contemporary performances and texts for the theatre Fictional Realities Real Fictions sets the discussion of the onset of new mimetic paradigm in three interrelated contexts the new perceptual patterns forged by contemporary theatre the use of media on stage and the strategies of today TM s political theatre The case studies presented here in spite of their thematic diversity are subordinated to a single theoretical framework Thus they turn out extremely useful both for the scholars investigating the problems of contemporary theatre and students of theatre and drama Fictional Realities Real Fictions offers them a rigid methodological scaffolding supported by a number of illustrative examples from a variety of cultural context and theatre traditions which gives them an opportunity to extrapolate from the main argument of the volume to their own research
