

Understanding Nutrition Labels

Are you getting enough—or too much?

Serving sizes, carbs, fiber... understanding these and other important nutrients and additives is a big part of eating healthy. The best place to find that information is on a nutrition label, but how do you make sense of it? Here are a few tips.

▶ Serving size

All the information on a label will be based on 1 serving, so be sure you know how much that is! Remember: Packages/cans often contain more than 1 serving.

▶ % Daily Value

The FDA makes recommendations for how much of each nutrient to eat in a day. The % Daily Value tells you how much a nutrient in a serving of food contributes to a daily diet of 2,000 calories a day.

- 5% or less = low in that nutrient
- 20% or higher = high in that nutrient

▶ Total fat

A low-fat food contains 3 grams of fat or less per serving. Look for items that have little saturated fat and no trans fat.

▶ Total carbs

You'll want to note this number if you're counting carbs.

- Dietary fiber: Your body doesn't digest fiber, so it doesn't affect your blood glucose. It also helps you feel full after eating and may lower your cholesterol level.
- Total sugars: Sugars raise your blood glucose quickly, so it's best to avoid foods that are high in sugar or have added sugar.

Transforming Food Environments Charlotte E.L. Evans, 2022-03-21 We regularly find ourselves in food environments that promote the consumption of high fat and sugary foods rather than encouraging us to eat more fruit and vegetables. However, because of increased media attention, people are becoming more interested in alternative approaches to improving the many food-related decisions we make daily. Transforming Food Environments features evidence from several disciplines exploring initiatives that have improved food environments and discusses the importance of achieving success in equitable and sustainable ways. The book presents information on diverse food environments followed by methods that help readers become aware of the design of interventions and food policies. It covers food environments in schools, workplaces, and community centres, as well as fast food establishments and food marketing. The book presents methods to help encourage better food choices and purchase of healthier foods. It explores persuasion tactics used by health professionals, such as changing availability and/or price using nudging techniques and food labelling.
