Spatial Policy In A Divided Nation:

Spatial Policy in a Divided Nation Richard T. Harrison, Mark Hart, 2002-09 This re evaluation of the role of regional policy in the UK has been accompanied by a much closer identification of regional policy with national economic policymaking This book drawing upon the contributions of a large number of experts in the field in the UK sets the debate on the future of spatial policy explicitly within the context of the economics and politics of the North South divide Recent policy debates in the United Kingdom have highlighted two major issues which will shape future policy developments and their impact in the 1990s the persistence of pronounced regional economic and social imbalances and the shift away from traditional perceptions of the role of regional policy with a new emphasis on inner city as opposed to regional problems In this collection by leading researchers in the field the role of regional policy in the UK is re evaluated against a background of renewed debate on the economic disparities inherent in the north south divide and an assessment of the implications for future policy

Devolution, Regionalism and Regional Development Jonathan Bradbury, 2007-12-18 Devolution Regionalism and Regional Development provides an overview and critical perspective on the impact of devolution on regionalism in the UK since 1999 taking a research based look at issues central to the development of regionalism politics governance and planning This multidisciplinary book is written by academics from the fields of geography economics town planning public policy management public administration politics and sociology with a final chapter by Patrick Le Gales putting the research findings into a theoretical context This will be an important book for those researching and studying economic and political geography and planning as well as those involved in regional development

Regional Development in the 1990s Ron Martin, Peter Townroe, 2013-10-18 This book documents the changing nature and challenge of regional development in Britain and Ireland in the final decade of this century In the first half of this book region by region profiles review the experience of the eighties and reflect on the present climate assessing problems and opportunities The second half provides 25 commentaries on changes influencing the development of regions from questions of industry technology and employment to the impact of national policy and 1992 and the prospects and capacity for regional policy and development

Institutions, Discourse, and Regional Development Henrik Halkier, 2006 Why are some regional development strategies adopted and others rejected Only limited systematic attention has been paid to the politics of regional policy including the role of institutions discourse and political debate in shaping this major area of public policy The book develops an institutionalist approach to the study of regional policy capable of spanning major European development paradigms and accounting for the dynamic relationship between organisations policies and political discourse This conceptual framework is then applied to the Scottish Development Agency a development body famed across Europe for its innovative policies but surrounded by political controversy in Scotland A detailed study of corporate strategies policy implementation and the wider British environment questions existing interpretations of the organisation which tend to vilify anti interventionist Thatcherites or glorify shrewd development professionals Instead the author proposes an alternative synthesis which highlights the interplay between institutions discourse and regional development in the politics of regional policy Nature of the Miracle Years Sandra Chaney,2008 After 1945 those responsible for conservation in Germany resumed their work with a relatively high degree of continuity as far as laws and personnel were concerned Yet conservationists soon found they had little choice but to modernize their views and practices in the challenging postwar context Forced to change by necessity those involved in state sponsored conservation institutionalized and professionalized their efforts while several private groups became more confrontational in their message and tactics Through their steady and often conservative presence within the mainstream of West German society conservationists ensured that by 1970 the map of the country was dotted with hundreds of reserves dozens of nature parks and one national park In doing so they assured themselves a strong position to participate in rather than be excluded from the left leaning environmental movement of the 1970s Regional Development and

Cross-border Cooperation in Southeastern Europe Giōrgos Petrakos,2003 Nationality and Planning in Scotland and Wales Roderick Macdonald (Lecturer),Huw Thomas,1997 This study looks at the ways in which the planning problems and approaches of Scotland and Wales are sometimes similar to and sometimes very different from each other and evaluates some central elements of planning and economic development urban and rural in the two countries Retreat from the Regions Steve Fothergill,Nigel Guy,1990 Multi plant companies are the dominant component of most regional economies For much of the post war period such companies enjoyed unprecedented expansion but for more than a decade now they have been involved in major restructuring leading to the closure of factories and to redundancy for thousands of workers As a result some localities have been plunged into a recession from which they have not recovered Aslib Book Guide ,1993

Culture, Institutions, and Economic Development Michael Keating,John Loughlin,Kris Deschouwer,2003 Regions are increasingly recognised as a key aspect of economic change in Europe not merely as geographic spaces but also as social systems Their history culture institutions and patterns of leadership mould the way in which they adapt to European and global competitive challenges This book reviews the debate surrounding the construction of regions and presents eight case studies to illustrate how they are shaped and reshaped in a variety of different ways The authors find that while some regions exhibit common patterns there are significant variations indicating that there is no definitive model of regional development This book offers a systematic comparison of eight distinct regions and stateless nations each with its own historical identity but which is constantly being rebuilt in changing economic and political conditions Avoiding economic or cultural determinism the authors show how region builders can shape their own responses to global challenges to produce models of development reflecting differing understandings and social compromises Culture Institutions and Economic Development will be warmly welcomed by academics within the fields of regional studies European studies and political science
