Thede, 1999 Nurses and computers are increasingly becoming partners in health care This comprehensive introduction to computers provides a foundation in computer basics and applications to nursing education and practice It seeks to prepare students to use computers in their careers as learners and provide concepts that the future nurse will use in clinical practice Preparing Nurses for Using Information Systems Hans E. Peterson, Ulla Gerdin-Jelger, 1988 Computers in Nursing's Nurses' Guide to the Internet Leslie H. Nicoll, 2001 Here s the first handbook targeted specifically to nurses and other health professionals to help you connect to and navigate through today s best online nursing resources This essential guide shows you what s there how to access it and how to use it Enhance your knowledge through the step by step instructions that make it easy for you to quickly find and use the specific and current nursing resources and literature you need Connect with your colleagues and develop your own online presence so you can network with other nurses in your specialty Discover home pages gopher sites and bulletin boards that put information age technology to work for you Publisher Essentials of Computers for Nurses Virginia K. Saba, Kathleen Ann McCormick, 1996 As computers continue to become more common in the health care industry computer literacy has become an integral part of the nursing profession Selected Book of the Year by the American Journal of Nursing in its first edition this book continues to provide an introduction to computer technology for nurses Informatics and Nursing Linda Q. Thede, 2003 This comprehensive introduction to informatics provides a solid foundation for nurses using computers to perform their professional duties The text is divided into five units Unit 1 provides an overview of the benefits of nursing informatics and a review of computer hardware and software characteristics and uses Unit 2 covers communication with computers including introductions to the Internet and the World Wide Web This unit also includes chapters on Internet use by health care consumers and the current and future role of telehealth in medical practice Unit 3 discusses word processing working with numbers presentation software and databases Unit 4 and 5 covers nursing informatics as a specialty nursing information systems and current issues and challenges facing nursing informatics For more information visit <http://connection.lww.com/go/thede> Nursing Uses of Computers and Information Science International Medical Informatics Association, 1985 Nursing Informatics Marion J. Ball, Kathryn J. Hannah, Ulla Gerdin Jelger, Hans Peterson, 2013-11-11 Nursing like other health related professions is information intensive The quality of care a patient receives is based on the soundness of judgment exercised by the health care team Underlying sound judgment is up to date information Unless nurses have access to accurate and pertinent information the care being rendered will not be of the highest standard What is required is not necessarily more rapid and efficient information services Modern technology can process immense amounts of data in the blink of an eye What we in the health professions need are information systems that are more intelligent systems that can integrate information from many sources systems that analyze and synthesize information and display it so that it may be applied directly in patient care in other words information that answers a question or even gives practical advice In order to accomplish such objectives work is needed to establish the scientific and theoretical basis for the use of computing and information systems by health professionals This is the research component In addition there is the need for continued development and evaluation of practical information systems

Introduction to Nursing Informatics Kathryn J. Hannah, Marion J. Ball, Margaret J.A. Edwards, 2013-04-17 This series is intended for the rapidly increasing number of health care professionals who have rudimentary knowledge and experience in health care computing and are seeking opportunities to expand their horizons It does not attempt to compete with the primers already on the market Eminent international experts will edit author or contribute to each volume in order to provide comprehensive and current accounts of innovations and future trends in this quickly evolving field Each book will be practical easy to use and well referenced Our aim is for the series to encompass all of the health professions by focusing on specific professions such as nursing in individual volumes However integrated computing systems are only one tool for improving communication among members of the health care team Therefore it is our hope that the series will stimulate professionals to explore additional means of fostering interdisciplinary exchange This series springs from a professional collaboration that has grown over the years into a highly valued personal friendship Our joint values put people first If the Computers in Health Care series lets us share those values by helping health care professionals to communicate their ideas for the benefit of patients then our efforts will have succeeded

Patient Care Information Systems Erica L. Drazen, Jane B. Metzger, Jami L. Ritter, Mark K. Schneider, 2012-12-06 In the current era of health care reform the pressures to truly manage patient care and to build effective integrated delivery systems are generating intense interest in patient care information systems Health care institutions cannot provide seamless access to care without seamless access to information and they cannot manage and improve care without improved information management Patient Care Information Systems examines how to design and implement these systems so they successfully meet the needs of physicians nurses and other health care providers In one convenient reference the authors summarize and synthesize previously disparate research and case experiences on these systems and suggest future directions based on the evolving demands of administrators and caregivers
