How We Write Mike Sharples, 2002-11-01 How We Write is an accessible guide to the entire writing process from forming ideas to formatting text. Combining new explanations of creativity with insights into writing as design, it offers a full account of the mental, physical, and social aspects of writing. How We Write explores how children learn to write, the importance of reflective thinking, processes of planning, composing, and revising, visual design of text, cultural influences on writing, global hypertext, and the future of collaborative and on-line writing. By referring to a wealth of examples from writers such as Umberto Eco, Terry Pratchett, and Ian Fleming, How We Write ultimately teaches us how to control and extend our own writing abilities. How We Write will be of value to students and teachers of language and psychology, professional and aspiring writers, and anyone interested in this familiar yet complex activity. The Writer, 1911 Models for Writing

Writing After Postcolonialism Jane Hiddleston, 2017-09-21 Focusing on francophone writing from North Africa as it has developed since the 1980s, Writing After Postcolonialism explores the extent to which the notion of postcolonialism is still resonant for literary writers a generation or more after independence and examines the troubled status of literature in society and politics during this period. Whilst analysing the ways in which writers from Algeria, Morocco, and Tunisia have reacted to political unrest and social dissatisfaction, Jane Hiddleston offers a compelling reflection on literature's ability to interrogate the postcolonial nation, as well as on its own uncertain role in the current context. The book sets out both to situate the recent generation of francophone writers in North Africa in relation to contemporary politics to postcolonial theory and evolving notions of world literature and to probe the ways in which a new and highly sophisticated set of writers reflect on the very notion of the literary during this period of transition
