Writing and Madness Shoshana Felman, 2022 Writing and Madness is Shoshana Felman's most influential work of literary theory and criticism Exploring the relations between literature philosophy and psychoanalysis through brilliant studies of Balzac Nerval Flaubert and James as well as Lacan Foucault and Derrida this book seeks the specificity of literature in its relation to what culture excludes under the label madness Why and how do literary writers reclaim the discourse of the madman and how does this reclaiming reveal something essential about the relation between literature and power as well as between literature and knowledge Every literary text continues to communicate with madness with what has been excluded decreed abnormal unacceptable or senseless by dramatizing a dynamically revitalized relation between sense and nonsense reason and unreason the readable and the unreadable This revelation of the irreducibility of the relation between the readable and the unreadable constitutes what the author calls la chose littéraire the literary thing

Writing Women's Madness, 1845-1914 Mary Chapman, 2025-08-25 Taking an interdisciplinary approach this book bridges literary studies and the history of medicine to offer a unique perspective on female mental illness in the nineteenth century Demonstrating the importance of writing to psychiatric practice during this period the book moves forward from previous asylum focused scholarship to uncover how written discourse was integral to the creation and development of theories about the female mind During the Victorian era cultural beliefs about femininity combined with an emerging physiological understanding of mental illness to produce a concept of female madness centred on reproductive biology Exploring the textuality of clinical literature and periodicals the book shows how their genre form language and readership shaped the development of gendered psychiatric theory Covering nineteenth century print culture a range of popular and specialist periodicals and delving into little explored sources in the history of psychiatry the book examines key topics of interest such as the mind sciences in the popular press the publishing history of psychiatric textbooks patient literature in asylum

Bureaucratic Muse Ethan Knapp,2010-11-01 Writing Madness, Writing Normalcy Lisa Spieker,2021-05-26 What does it mean to be mad in contemporary American society How do we categorize people s reactions to extreme pressures trauma loneliness and serious mental illness Importantly who gets to determine these classifications and why This book seeks to answer these questions through studying an increasingly popular media genre memoirs of people with mental illnesses Memoirs like the ones examined in this book often respond to stigmatizing tropes about the mad in popular culture and engage with concepts in mental health activism and research This study breaks new academic ground and argues that the featured texts rethink the possibilities of community building and stigma politics Drawing on literary analysis and sociological concepts it understands these memoirs as complex at times even contradictory approaches to activism

Liminal Postmodernisms ,1994 Lucid Interval George MacLennan,1992 MacLennan approaches the eight writers from a broadly sociohistorical viewpoint and takes into account relevant biographical and medical evidence where available examining their situations as revealed or mediated by their writings Through a series of detailed analyses he argues that these writings bear witness to a progressively increasing degree of psychological inwardness in Western culture This is a process that affects both how madness is experienced by the individual and how it is expressed in subjective writing By the late eighteenth century madness becomes for a significant number of writers and artists an intimately interiorized condition one which implicates their entire affective life It is this subjectivized and existential madness that in the Romantic period and subsequently has been taken to express an inner truth in an increasingly secularized and alienating state of society In taking these developments into account Lucid Interval is able to arrive at a fresh understanding of the appearance in the modern period of such figures as Clare and de Nerval writers who suffer madness as an inner subjective catastrophe but who in the midst of that experience are able to explore it creatively so producing a literature of madness which is a new phenomenon in itself and which sets a troubling precedent for modern culture

Writing Thomas Bailey Aldrich, Ferris Greenslet, 1907 Boundaries in Medieval Romance Neil Cartlidge, 2008 Medieval romance frequently and perhaps characteristically capitalises on the dramatic and suggestive possibilities implicit in boundaries not only the geographical political and cultural frontiers that medieval romances imagine and imply but also more metaphorical demarcations It is these boundaries as they appear in insular romances circulating in English and French which the essays in this volume address They include the boundary between reality and fictionality boundaries between different literary traditions modes and cultures and boundaries between different kinds of experience or perception especially the altered states associated with sickness magic the supernatural or the divine MaComère, 1999 Cultural
