Learning to Smoke Jason Hughes,2003-02-15 Why do people smoke Taking a unique approach to this question Jason Hughes moves beyond the usual focus on biological addiction that dominates news coverage and public health studies and invites us to reconsider how social and personal understandings of smoking crucially affect the way people experience it Learning to Smoke examines the diverse sociological and cultural processes that have compelled people to smoke since the practice was first introduced to the West during the sixteenth century Hughes traces the transformations of tobacco and its use over time from its role as a hallucinogen in Native American shamanistic ritual to its use as a prophylactic against the plague and a cure for cancer by early Europeans and finally to the current view of smoking as a global pandemic He then analyzes tobacco from the perspective of the individual user exploring how its consumption relates to issues of identity and life changes Comparing sociocultural and personal experiences Hughes ultimately asks what the patterns of tobacco use mean for the clinical treatment of smokers and for public policy on smoking Pointing the way then to a more learned and sophisticated understanding of tobacco use this study will prove to be essential reading for anyone interested in the history of smoking and the sociology of addiction

Tobacco Charles A. Lilley,L. S. Hardin,Thomas H. Delano,Wilfred Pocklington Pond,1918

Tobacco Use Among United States Racial/ethnic Minority Groups United States. Department of Health and Human Services,1998 This Surgeon General s report on tobacco use summarizes current information on risk factors and patterns related to tobacco use among members of four major racial and ethnic minority groups in the United States African Americans American Indians and Alaska Natives Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders and Hispanics In addition this report presents information on national and regional efforts to curtail consumption of tobacco products among members of these four groups Previous Surgeon General s reports on smoking and health have briefly summarized findings related to one or more of the racial ethnic groups covered in this report but this is the first Surgeon

General's report to concentrate specifically on the four major racial/ethnic groups in the United States. Several factors prompted the development of this report. First, the information in this report has never before been compiled in one source. Consequently, policymakers, community leaders, researchers, and public health workers have had difficulty determining the extent of the problem, identifying gaps in information regarding tobacco use among members of the four groups, or being aware of existing tobacco control programs that have demonstrated effectiveness. Thus, incorporating such information into the design and implementation of culturally appropriate services has been difficult. Second, the four racial/ethnic groups currently constitute about one-fourth of the population of this country, and the Bureau of the Census projects that by 2050 the non-Hispanic white population in the United States will total only 53 percent. Day 1996. Preventing health problems related to tobacco use among the individuals in racial and ethnic groups will be integral to achieving U.S. public health objectives such as those proposed in Healthy People 2000 National Health Promotion and Disease Prevention Objectives. U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (USDHHS), 1991-1995 National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS), 1994. This report contributes essential knowledge that must be incorporated into efforts to accomplish the Healthy People 2000 objectives.

Tobacco Smoking and Nutrition John N. Diana, William A. Pryor, 1993. This work reviews epidemiological, chemical, biochemical, cellular, and molecular mechanisms associated with both tobacco smoking-induced chronic health risks and the modification of such health risks by chemopreventive/nutritional elements. "Code of Massachusetts regulations, 2010", 2010.
