examination of how school division politics regional economic policies parental concerns urban development efforts popular cultures gender ideologies racial politics and university and corporate agendas come together to produce educational effects Unlike conventional school ethnographies the focus of this work is less on classrooms than on the webs of social relations that embed schools in neighborhoods cities states and regions Utilizing a variety of narratives and analytical styles this volume explores how curriculum innovations are simultaneously made possible by and undermined by school district politics neighborhood histories and the spatial and temporal organizations of teachers and parents lives situates the educational discourse of administrators and teachers in the changing economic and political climates of the city analyzes the motivations behind an effort by school and business proponents to refashion classrooms within the school into business enterprises and of children s efforts to make sense of the scheme examines the role of the school as a neighborhood institution situating it at the intersections of city planners efforts to regulate city space and children s efforts to carve out live spaces through out of school routines contemplates the meaning of school as a site for bodily experience and looks at how patterns of space and control in the school shaped children s bodies and at how they continued to use body based languages to construct maturity gender and race and investigates the school as a space for the deployment of symbolic resources where children learned and constructed identities through their engagements with television comic books movies and sports Tangled Up In School raises questions about how we draw the boundaries of the school about how schools fit into the lives of children and cities and about what we mean when we talk about school
