Jewish and Non-Jewish Creators of "Jewish" Languages Paul Wexler, 2006 The present volume brings together 34 articles that were published between 1964 and 2003 on Judaized forms of Arabic Chinese German Greek Persian Portuguese Slavic including Modern Hebrew and Yiddish two Slavic languages relexified to Hebrew and German respectively Spanish and Semitic Hebrew including Ladino the Ibero Romance relexification of Biblical Hebrew and Karaite The motivations for reissuing these articles are the convenience of having thematically similar topics appear together in the same venue and the need to update the interpretations many of which have radically changed over the years As explained in a lengthy new preface and in notes added to the articles themselves the impetus to create strikingly unique Jewish ethnolects comes not so much from the creativity of the Jews but rather from non Jewish converts to Judaism in search often via relexification of a unique linguistic analogue to their new ethnoreligious identity The volume should be of interest to students of relexification of the Judaization of non Jewish languages and of these specific languages

Austria were played out in the theatres of Vienna which enjoyed a cultural prominence rarely matched in other countries. By 1934 productions across the city were being co-opted to serve the newly patriotic cause of the Dollfuss and Schuschnigg regimes and the Burgtheater once known as the first German stage had been transformed into a national theatre for Austria. Using case studies of key productions and a wealth of previously unseen archival material Pyrah sheds new light on artistic and ideological developments throughout the period including the neglected earlier years. He documents previously unexplored overlaps in the cultural programmes of Left and Right and unearths evidence that key institutions were subverted by the Right well before the suspension of parliamentary rule in 1933.
