Woman Behind The Mirror:

The Woman Behind the Mirror Judith Couchman, 1997 Shows how women can make peace with their outward appearances regardless of the world's insistence on physical perfection Dust jacket

The Girl Behind the Glass Elara Graves, What if the girl in your mirror wasn't a reflection but someone trapped behind the glass watching learning waiting Nora Lane is a social worker who has spent her life saving children from the kind of abuse she survived But when she sees a strange young girl staring at her from inside a bathroom mirror a pale child with dark eyes and a white dress Nora becomes the target of something far older lonelier and more desperate than a haunting At first the sightings are fleeting A handprint on the glass A figure standing behind her reflection Lips forming silent words Help me Let me out As the phenomenon spreads across the city and thousands begin seeing the same girl in every reflective surface Nora discovers the truth the child is Eleanor Marsh an abused girl who vanished in 1962 after escaping through a mirror into a dead silent world known only as the quiet place Nora becomes the only person who can communicate with her and the only one the girl believes can free her But something else lives in the quiet place Something that has been feeding on Eleanor's fear for sixty years Something hungry enough to push through the thin membrane between worlds To save Eleanor and the city Nora must confront her own past face the memories she's buried all her life and choose whether to save the girl behind the glass or take her place A haunting emotional slow burn horror novel about trauma identity sacrifice and the monsters we inherit Perfect for fans of Paul Tremblay Josh Malerman and The Haunting of Hill House

Between Literature and Painting Roberta Buffi, 2002

Janine Burke Beverley Farmer and Drusilla Modjeska have made a significant contribution to Australian women's writing at the end of the twentieth century Their original bold narratives convey a sense of plurality and the unfixed nature of femininity in representation By investigating the aesthetic theoretical and literary perspectives that ground modernism and postmodernism and by analyzing the effects that distinguish certain aspects of contemporary European paintings as well as some modernist women's visual configurations and self constructions Roberta Buffi explores how the fictions produced by these three Australian women writers are informed by particular linguistic and visual notions Buffi argues how the visual both as a subject matter and as a conspicuous quality of their prose styles constitutes an underlying narrative strategy in their work which adds new perspectives to available literary and theoretical frameworks in which preoccupations of feminine subjectivity are at stake
