A Visual History of Twentieth-century Architecture Dennis Sharp,1972 The twentieth century has witnessed dramatic and fundamental changes in almost every branch of architecture It has been a period of experiment in the use of new materials and constructional methods which has led to an extraordinarily wide range of buildings from highly personal and emotional structures to the cool geometry of pure forms This is the first book to attempt in strictly chronological terms to survey all the major buildings of this century It is arranged in decades from 1900 to 1970 within each decade all significant completed buildings which have had a generic influence on twentieth century architecture are examined Each entry is fully documented and the building's present state is given where known Each building is illustrated with photographs drawings and plans An introduction sets the scene looking back to the engineering achievements of the nineteenth century to the architects technical inheritance and the aesthetic problems that have occupied architects and theorists of this century Each decade is prefaced by a short evaluation of the developments within those years The buildings themselves are presented in clear factual terms and much hitherto unknown information is given In addition to the decade chapters the book provides a useful chronology of buildings erected between 1900 and 1970 and a comprehensive index It is illustrated with nearly 1 000 monochrome and colour illustrations The combination of background information with a large body of factual matter makes this book of exceptional value to anyone who is interested in the social and cultural life of the twentieth century To students and historians it will become an essential reference work

Studies in Tectonic Culture Kenneth Frampton, 2001-08-24 Composed of ten essays and an epilogue that trace the history of contemporary form as an evolving poetic of structure and construction the book s analytical framework rests on Frampton s close readings of key French and German and English sources from the eighteenth century to the present Kenneth Frampton s long awaited follow up to his classic A Critical History of Modern Architecture is certain to influence any future debate on the evolution of modern architecture Studies in Tectonic Culture is nothing less than a rethinking of the entire modern architectural tradition The notion of tectonics as employed by Frampton the focus on architecture as a constructional craft constitutes a direct challenge to current mainstream thinking on the artistic limits of postmodernism and suggests a convincing alternative Indeed Frampton argues modern architecture is invariably as much about structure and construction as it is about space and abstract form Composed of ten essays and an epilogue that trace the history of contemporary form as an evolving poetic of structure and construction the book s analytical framework rests on Frampton s close readings of key French and German and English sources from the eighteenth century to the present He clarifies the various turns that structural engineering and tectonic imagination have taken in the work of such architects as Perret Wright Kahn Scarpa and Mies and shows how both constructional form and material character were integral to an evolving architectural expression of their work Frampton also demonstrates that the way in which these elements are articulated from one work to the next provides a basis upon which to evaluate the works as a whole This is especially evident in his consideration of the work of Perret Mies and Kahn and the continuities in their thought and attitudes that linked them to the past Frampton considers the conscious cultivation of the tectonic tradition in architecture as an essential element in the
