While the discoveries of modern academia have deconstructed and replaced all of Victorian science in detail we remain addicted to the Darwinian theory of biological evolution Darwinists bicker with their dialectical counterpart Creationism as if nothing else could possibly exist Is it not past time for us to evolve into the 21st century and reflect the database of modern science or is this yet another cultural institution that is too big to fail

Technology Eric Schatzberg,2018-11-12 In modern life technology is everywhere Yet as a concept technology is a mess In popular discourse technology is little more than the latest digital innovations Scholars do little better offering up competing definitions that include everything from steelmaking to singing In Technology Critical History of a Concept Eric Schatzberg explains why technology is so difficult to define by examining its three thousand year history one shaped by persistent tensions between scholars and technical practitioners Since the time of the ancient Greeks scholars have tended to hold technicians in low esteem defining technical practices as mere means toward ends defined by others Technicians in contrast have repeatedly pushed back against this characterization insisting on the dignity creativity and cultural worth of their work The tension between scholars and technicians continued from Aristotle through Francis Bacon and into the nineteenth century It was only in the twentieth century that modern meanings of technology arose technology as the industrial arts technology as applied science and technology as technique Schatzberg traces these three meanings to the present day when discourse about technology has become pervasive but confusion among the three principal meanings of technology remains common He shows that only through a humanistic concept of technology can we understand the complex human choices embedded in our modern world
