Think German I:

Thinking German Translation Margaret Rogers, Michael White, Michael Loughridge, Ian Higgins, Sándor Hervej, 2020-04-22 Thinking German Translation is a comprehensive practical course in translation for advanced undergraduate students of German and postgraduate students embarking on Master's translation programmes. Now in its third edition, this course focuses on translation as a decision-making process covering all stages of the translation process from research to the rewriting of the source text in the language of translation to the final revision process. This third edition brings the course up to date, referencing relevant research sources in Translation Studies and technological developments as appropriate and balancing the coverage of subject matter with examples and varied exercises in a wide range of genres from both literary and specialised material. All chapters from the second edition have been extensively revised and in many cases restructured; new chapters have been added, literary translation research and resources as well as suggestions for further reading. Offering around 50 practical exercises, the course features material from a wide range of sources including business, economics and politics, advertising, marketing and consumer texts, tourism, science and engineering, modern literary texts and popular song, the literary canon including poetry. A variety of translation issues are addressed among them: cultural differences, genre conventions, the difficult concept of equivalence as well as some of the key differences between English and German linguistic and textual features. Thinking German Translation is essential reading for all students seriously interested in improving their translation skills. It is also an excellent foundation for those considering a career in translation. A Tutor's Handbook offers comments and notes on the exercises for each chapter, including not only translations but also a range of other tasks as well as some specimen answers.
