

Shakespeare's Sonnets

- Shakespeare's sonnets were published in 1609, but most of them were written much earlier, probably in the 1590s, when Sidney's Astrophel and Stella established the vogue of the Elizabethan sonnet cycle. There are 154 sonnets in all, and together they suggest a "story," although the exact details of that "story" are elusive and mysterious. The first 126 sonnets are addressed mainly to a young man of great beauty and promise. The speaker expresses his affection and admiration for the young man, urges him to marry and perpetuate his virtues through children, and warns him about the destructive power of time, age, and moral weakness. Sonnets 78–86 of this group are concerned with a rival poet who has also addressed poems to the young man. Sonnets 127–152 are addressed to a lady with dark hair, eyes, and complexion. Both the speaker and the young man seem to be involved with her romantically.

There has always been much speculation about the biographical meaning of the "story" of Shakespeare's sonnets, but no one has ever produced a convincing theory connecting it with the facts of Shakespeare's life. The situations and relationships suggested in the sonnets are best understood as the fictional means through which Shakespeare explores basic questions about time and death, about beauty and moral integrity, about love, and about poetry itself.

Twentyfive Sonnets:

Twenty-five Sonnets of Shakespeare William Shakespeare,1922 Secret Architecture of Shakespeare's Sonnets Steven Monte,2021-11-09 This book argues the idea that Shakespeare was deeply engaged with other poets and with pursuing a career as a poet and that the organisational schemes of the Sonnets have been hiding in plain sight for over four centuries The fundamental reason why his schemes have gone unnoticed is historical within decades of his death conventions of sonnet sequences became unfamiliar and they have largely remained so since Weaving together ideas of the Sonnets as a free standing sequence and as a sonnet sequence among other poets complex sequences we discover new insights into Shakespeare s career as a poet Homoerotic Poets of the Italian Trecento Fabian Alfie,2026-03-15 Homoerotic Poets of the Italian Trecento explores same sex desire in the work of three skilled medieval Italian poets bringing their verse and expression to English readers Thirteenth and fourteenth century Italy produced a wide range of literature from the courtly love of the Sicilian School to the spiritualized love of the dolce stil nuovo and Dante to the comic poetry that flourished with authors such as Cecco Angiolieri and Folgore da San Gimignano Author Fabian Alfie through his translations of these poets shows how this cultural context allowed three medieval Italian poets Meo dei Tolomei Cecco Nuccoli and Marino Ceccoli to openly discuss their sexual relationships with other men in their own poetic verse These three poets adapted the languages of comic literature and courtly love to the new topic of homoeroticism The result is a unique form of poetics that blended traditional expressions with innovative material While homoerotic subtexts in the canonical works are often highlighted in the scholarship the expression of same sex desire ran deeper and was more prominent than in those works alone For these poets same sex desire is not the subtext to their verse it is the text itself Through their poems presented in facing Italian English format we are given a glimpse into the range of sexual attraction available to men in medieval Italy MLN. ,1910 Provides image and full text online access to back issues Consult the online table of contents for specific holdings
