George Paul Sutton, 2006 Liquid propellant rocket engines have propelled all the manned space flights all the space vehicles flying to the planets or deep space virtually all satellites and the majority of medium range or intercontinental range ballistic missiles

The Politics of Space Security James Clay Moltz, 2008-06-24 At a time when no other country enjoys the advantages that the United States currently reaps from space some U S officials argue that U S space defenses will be needed to protect access to critical military and civilian assets in orbit Others argue that space should be a valuable sanctuary from deployed weapons and military conflict To inform this debate and develop meaningful guidelines for the future Clay Moltz has undertaken the only comprehensive study of the first 50 years of space security highlighting the main trends in military space developments their underlying causes and the factors that are likely to influence their future course What emerges is a picture of surprising military restraint shown by the United States and the Soviet Union in space and the inescapable conclusion that the only way forward is through a multilateral commitment to interdependent environmentally focused space security

The Politics of Space Security James Moltz, 2011-06-29 The past five decades have witnessed often fierce international rivalry in space but also surprising military restraint Now with an increasing number of countries capable of harming U S space assets experts and officials have renewed a long standing debate over the best route to space security Some argue that space defenses will be needed to protect critical military and civilian satellites Others argue that space should be a sanctuary from deployed weapons and military conflict particularly given the worsening threat posed by orbital space debris Moltz puts this debate into historical context by explaining the main trends in military space developments since Sputnik their underlying causes and the factors that are likely to influence their future course This new edition provides analysis of the Obama administration s space policy and the rise of new actors including China India and Iran His conclusion offers a unique perspective on the mutual risks militaries face in space and the need for all countries to commit to interdependent environmentally focused space security

America's Space Sentinels Jeffrey Richelson, 1999 During much of the Cold War America s first line of defense was in outer space a network of secret satellites that could provide instant warning of an enemy missile launch The presence of these infrared sensors orbiting 22 000 miles above the earth discouraged a Soviet first strike and stabilized international relations between the superpowers and they now play a crucial role in monitoring the missile programs of China India and other emerging nuclear powers Jeffrey Richelson has written the first comprehensive history of this vital program tracing its evolution from the late 1950s to the present He puts Defense Support Program operations in the context of world events from Russian missile programs to the Gulf War and explains how DSP s infrared sensors are used to detect meteorites monitor forest fires and even gather industrial intelligence by seeing the lights of steel mills
