Statistics, Registries, and Science Juha Alho, 1999 Provides information on Finnish statistical innovation both in academics and administration including historical and and current work Nordic Labour Market Research on Register Data Torben Pilegaard Jensen, Anders Holm, 2001 Statistical Demography and Forecasting Juha Alho, Bruce Spencer, 2006-05-27 Sustainability of pension systems intergeneration fiscal equity under population aging and accounting for health care benefits for future retirees are examples of problems that cannot be solved without understanding the nature of population forecasts and their uncertainty Similarly the accuracy of population estimates directly affects both the distributions of formula based government allocations to sub national units and the apportionment of political representation The book develops the statistical foundation for addressing such issues Areas covered include classical mathematical demography event history methods multi state methods stochastic population forecasting sampling and census coverage and decision theory The methods are illustrated with empirical applications from Europe and the U S For statisticians the book provides a unique introduction to demographic problems in a familiar language For demographers actuaries epidemiologists and professionals in related fields the book presents a unified statistical outlook on both classical methods of demography and recent developments To facilitate its classroom use exercises are included Over half of the book is readily accessible to undergraduates but more maturity may be required to benefit fully from the complete text Knowledge of differential and integral calculus matrix algebra basic probability theory and regression analysis is assumed Juha M Alho is Professor of Statistics University of Joensuu Finland and Bruce D Spencer is Professor of Statistics and Faculty Fellow at the Institute for Policy Research Northwestern University Both have contributed extensively to statistical demography and served in advisory roles and as statistical consultants in the field Old and New Perspectives on Mortality Forecasting Tommy Bengtsson, Nico Keilman, 2019-03-28 This open access book describes methods of mortality forecasting and discusses possible improvements It contains a selection of previously unpublished and published papers which together provide a state of the art overview of statistical approaches as well as behavioural and biological perspectives The different parts of the book provide discussions of current practice probabilistic forecasting the linearity in the increase of life expectancy causes of death and the role of cohort factors The key question in the book is whether it is possible to project future mortality accurately and if so what is the best approach This makes the book a valuable read to demographers pension planners actuaries and all those interested and or working in modelling and forecasting mortality Famine Demography Tim Dyson, Cormac Ó Gráda, 2002 This book deals with the important subject of famine demography It contains case studies of the demography of historical and more recent famines in locations as far apart as Ireland Finland India Burundi Russia Greece Madagascar and Japan The authors address issues such as the role of famines in controlling population growth in the past the nature of interactions between starvation and epidemic diseases during times of famine and the detailed demographic consequences of famines In the latter category issues such as the age and cause specific profiles of excess famine mortality receive particular attention Famine Demography illustrates how the demographic impacts of famines can vary according for example to the nature of the famine causation process and the socio economic and demographic characteristics of the populations which are affected The nature and basis of sex differentials in famine mortality are a recurring theme of the book as are the implications for human fertility and migration This is the only comparative volume of its kind It is wide ranging in time and place but at the same time focuses sharply on a particular subject Consequently its contents provide a unique understanding of famine demography which should be of interest to academics and practitioners involved in limiting the consequences of famines

Socioeconomic Differences in Old Age Mortality Rasmus Hoffmann,2008-10-11 Social differences in health and mortality constitute a persistent finding in epidemiological demographic and sociological research This topic is increasingly discussed in the political debate and is among the most urgent public health issues However it is still unknown if socioeconomic mortality differences increase or decrease with age This book provides a comprehensive thoughtful and critical discussion of all aspects involved in the relationship between socioeconomic status health and mortality In a well written language it synthesizes the sociological theory of social inequality and an empirical study of mortality differences that has been performed at the Max Planck Institute for Demographic Research Rostock Germany The best available datasets from Denmark and the USA as two very different countries are used to analyze the age pattern of social mortality differences the Danish register data covering the whole Danish population between 1980 and 2002 This study is the most comprehensive analysis of socioeconomic mortality differences in the literature in terms of data quantity quality and the statistical method of event history modeling It makes important new theoretical and empirical contributions With a new method it also addresses the question whether the measurement of social mortality differences in old age so far has been biased by mortality selection due to unobserved heterogeneity This book signifies an important step forward in theory empirical data analysis and methodology and an advancement for many disciplines involved in the subject of socioeconomic differences in old age mortality Prof Dr Gabriele Doblhammer Max Planck Institute for Demographic Research Rostock Germany

Empirical Studies on Working Hours and Labour Market Flows Petri Böckerman,2003
