

AUTHOR'S CRAFT

Cheat Sheet

Alliteration

Occurs when the author uses the same letter or sound to begin each word in a string of words, such as, "Abbey's alligator ate apples and asparagus."

Allusion

An allusion is a figure of speech that makes reference to a well-known person, event, or place, such as "I was surprised his nose wasn't growing like Pinocchio's!"

Assonance:

This is the repetition of vowel sounds in nearby words. It is used to reinforce the meaning of words and often used to set the mood. Here's an example of repeated use of the long "o": "Poetry is old, ancient, goes back far. It is among the oldest of living things. So old it is that no man knows how and why the first poems came."

Hyperbole

An exaggerated comment or line used for effect and not meant to be taken literally. An example is, "I've told you a million times!"

Imagery

Language evoking one, some or all of the five senses. An example is, "She ordered a triple scoop of mint, chocolate chip ice cream with hot fudge and whip cream."

Metaphor

A direct comparison between two unlike things without using 'like' or 'as.' An example would be, "You are the light of my life."

Personification

Occurs when the author gives animals, objects, ideas or actions; the qualities of humans. An example is, "The calm sea kissed the southern shore."

Simile

A comparison of two unlikely items using 'like' or 'as.' An example is, "The pine trees stood as tall as statues."

Symbolism

An object or action that mean something more its literal meaning. A symbol's meaning rarely changes from text to text. Rainy days always mean a bad day or hard times.

Tone or Mood

The attitude an author takes toward the shape and life of the words. Tone and mood give voice and personality to the character, as well as as the whole piece, where the reader gets a sense of funny, serious, dramatic, etc.

The Author's Craft Arnold Bennett, 2021-02-04 It will be well for us not to assume an attitude of condescension towards the crowd Because in the matter of looking without seeing we are all about equal We all go to and fro in a state of the observing faculties which somewhat resembles coma We are all content to look and not see And if and when having comprehended that the role of observer is not passive but active we determine by an effort to rouse ourselves from the coma and really to see the spectacle of the world a spectacle surpassing circuses and even street

accidents in sustained dramatic interest we shall discover slowly in the course of time that the act of seeing which seems so easy is not so easy as it seems Let a man resolve I will keep my eyes open on the way to the office of a morning and the probability is that for many mornings he will see naught that is not trivial and that his system of perspective will be absurdly distorted The unusual the unaccustomed will infallibly attract him to the exclusion of what is fundamental and universal Travel makes observers of us all but the things which as travellers we observe generally show how unskilled we are in the new activity A man went to Paris for the first time and observed right off that the carriages of suburban trains had seats on the roof like a tramcar He was so thrilled by the remarkable discovery that he observed almost nothing else This enormous fact occupied the whole foreground of his perspective He returned home and announced that Paris was a place where people rode on the tops of trains A French woman came to London for the first time and no English person would ever guess the phenomenon which vanquished all others in her mind on the opening day She saw a cat walking across a street The vision excited her For in Paris cats do not roam in thoroughfares because there are practically no houses with gardens or areas the flat system is unfavourable to the enlargement of cats I remember once in the days when observation had first presented itself to me as a beautiful pastime getting up very early and making the circuit of inner London before summer dawn in quest of interesting material And the one note I gathered was that the ground in front of the all night coffee stalls was white with egg shells What I needed then was an operation for cataract I also remember taking a man to the opera who had never seen an opera The work was Lohengrin When we came out he said That swan's neck was rather stiff And it was all he did say We went and had a drink He was not mistaken His observation was most just but his perspective was that of those literary critics who give ten lines to pointing out three slips of syntax and three lines to an ungrammatical admission that the novel under survey is not wholly tedious

The Author's Craft Arnold Bennett, 2017-10-05 The author of The Grand Babylon Hotel How to Live on 24 Hours a Day The Old Wives Tale and much more English writer Arnold Bennett's fictional and non-fictional works have stood the test of time Bennett also wrote for stage and screen The Author's Craft contains some of Bennett's essays on the art of writing with his thoughts on applying the craft to both novel and play writing The Author's Craft Arnold Bennett, 2017-07-20 Written in 1914 this is a short exposition by Bennett on writing His instructional volume that contains Seeing Life Writing Novels Writing Plays and The Artist and the Public He doesn't get into technique other than to expound on the need for design or construction to follow inspiration He writes with passion indeed he mentions that passion is one of the two essential characteristics of the novelist The other key attribute being a sense of beauty He also discusses the key differences between writing novels and writing plays having written about twenty of each Cracking Open the Author's Craft Lester L. Laminack, 2007 Award winning children's author and acclaimed educator Lester Laminack invites you and your students to join him as he peels back the layers of his picture book Saturdays and Teacakes to make the writing moves visible With Lester as guide on the enclosed DVD your young writers will observe and explore what he did how he did it and why he did it that way As Lester demonstrates how to read with a writer s eyes and ears your students will gain increasing control over their own narrative writing Lester provides you with multiple tools You ll find 14 ready to use mini lessons to introduce your students to techniques and literary elements Carefully selected anchor texts provide inspiration for exploring each technique and element In addition a professional workshop to use on your own or with colleagues will deepen your own knowledge base This workshop in a book also perfect for literacy coaches and teacher leaders demonstrates how to read like a writer identify craft moves and form theories about why the moves were made The DVD features Lester explaining how writers practice audible and visual craft using Saturdays and Teacakes to illustrate both The DVD also includes downloadable forms that you can share with your students to explore author s craft and to monitor their evolving understanding Use the DVD to have Lester talk directly to the class or use the book to present the lessons yourself Either method will help you teach your students to develop their own craft moves which will enliven and refine their writing Book jacket

The Author's Craft Arnold Bennett, 2021-03-25 A young dog inexperienced sadly lacking in even primary education ambles and frisks along the footpath of Fulham Road near the mysterious gates of a Marist convent He is a large puppy on the way to be a dog of much dignity but at present he has little to recommend him but that gawky elegance and that bounding gratitude for the gift of life which distinguish the normal puppy He is an ignorant fool He might have entered the convent of nuns and had a fine time but instead he steps off the pavement into the road the road being a vast and interesting continent imperfectly explored His confidence in his nose in his agility and in the goodness of God is touching absolutely painful to witness He glances casually at a huge towering vermilion construction that is whizzing towards him on four wheels preceded by a glint of brass and a wisp of steam and then with disdain he ignores it as less important than a mere speck of odorous matter in the mud Then next instant he is lying inert in the mud His
