

THE CHRISTIAN SOCIAL CONSCIENCE

“The thinking of all the mainstream denominations...has converged around one key proposition: that under the right conditions, economic growth can serve God’s purposes.”

Henry Churchill King

The Christian Social Conscience:

The Christian Social Conscience Rodger Charles, 1970 The Christian Social Conscience, 1965 Genesis of the Social Conscience Henry Sylvester Nash, 1897 The Christian Social Conscience Rodger Charles (s.j.), 1970 The Social Conscience of the Evangelical Sherwood Eliot Wirt, 1968

Sherwood Eliot Wirt challenges Christians to confront the injustices of our times with Biblical faith and strong action. Jesus Christ he says would have agreed with Karl Marx that the beginning of all criticism is the criticism of religion. Taking a long look at Christianity as it is actually practiced in America today the author brings into the open a full and frank discussion of the evangelical Christian's emerging concern for the world in which he lives. He explores such important subjects as Peace, Thermonuclear Energy, Race, Birth control, Capital punishment, Labor management relations. Beginning with a close examination of Biblical teachings and in particular of Jesus' practical concern for other people, Dr. Wirt goes on to present the attitudes of great men in the church down the centuries. It is the author's firm belief that evangelical Christians are at last waking from what he calls a Rip Van Winkle sleep over vital social issues. He expresses great hope for the immediate future of the evangelical cause.

NOT ME GOD is the story of an ordinary man's confrontation with God written in the form of a dialogue. Publisher: The Christian Social Conscience Rodger Charles (SJ), 1970 The Christian Social Conscience, by a Group of Laymen, 1965 Catholic Social Conscience Keith Chappell, Francis Davis, 2011

This outstanding collection of essays sets out to explore the possibilities for a renewed Catholic social conscience in the aftermath of three related but contrasting crises: namely the demise of European Communism, the recent and ongoing international economic collapse, and the devastating blow to Catholic credibility in the public sphere represented by the widespread and senior cover-up of clergy child sex abuse. Interdisciplinary in nature, the essays seek to reground theological thinking in a fresh way, to draw out traditions that have been lost in the midst of political and cultural struggle, and to focus on specific instances of social need. In doing this they tease out emerging tensions between ecclesiastical rhetoric and the Church's institutional capacity and skills to match words to deeds; the essays also reflect on specific instances of public engagement and theology which have both helped and hindered advocacy for a common good. Hopeful in tone, the collection is mission-centred, comprising contributions from those who are leading figures in all of their fields. Catholic Social Conscience will be of particular interest to all Christians who have believed that the Catholic Social Teaching tradition up to now had something to offer the Christian community as a whole by way of resources to navigate the call to civic and social action. It will appeal to Catholic parish council members, charity workers, activists, catechists, religious seminarians, and academics. Indeed, it should inspire those seeking to reflect on the future of Catholic social thought and action in an era when the traction of the social encyclical tradition in the face of economic crisis and the legitimacy of the Church's frontline figures in the aftermath of the abuse crisis has never been more important, contested, nor more under pressure.
