Toward Consilience:

Toward Consilience Gerald A. Cory Jr., 2012-12-06 The present work is the second in a series constituting an extension of my doctoral thesis done at Stanford in the early 1970s Like the earlier work The Reciprocal Modular Brain in Economics and Politics Shaping the Rational and Moral Basis of Organization Exchange and Choice Plenum Publishing 1999 it may also be considered to respond to the call for consilience by Edward O Wilson I agree with Wilson that there is a pressing need in the sciences today for the unification of the social with the natural sciences I consider the present work to proceed from the perspective of behavioral ecology specifically a subfield which I choose to call interpersonal behavioral ecology th Ecology as a general field has emerged in the last quarter of the 20 century as a major theme of concern as we have become increasingly aware that we must preserve the planet whose limited resources we share with all other earthly creatures Interpersonal behavioral ecology however focuses not on the physical environment but upon our social environment It concerns our interpersonal behavioral interactions at all levels from simple dyadic one to one personal interactions to our larger even global social economic and political interactions God and Nature Curtis L. Thompson, Joyce M. Cuff, 2012-03-29 Two scholars who embrace contemporary insights from science and religion give shape to a compelling account of God's relation to nature "Proof," Policy, and Practice Paul E. Lingenfelter, 2023-07-03 How can we fix our schools Improve graduation rates in college What works These are questions that make the headlines and vex policy makers practitioners and educational researchers While they strive to improve society there are frequently gulfs of mutual incomprehension among them Academics longing for more influence may wrongly fault irrationality ideology or ignorance for the failure of research to inform policy and practice more powerfully Policy makers and practitioners may doubt that academics can deliver ideas that will reliably yield desirable results This book bridges the divide It argues that unrealistic expectations lead to both unproductive research and impossible standards for evidence based policy and practice and it offers promising ways for evidence to contribute to improvement It analyzes the utility and limitations of the different research methods that have been applied to policy and practice as well as the strengths and weaknesses of educational reform strategies It explains why using evidence for accountability often makes things worse rather than better Paul Lingenfelter offers educational researchers and policy makers a framework for considering such questions as What problems are important and accessible What methods will be fruitful Which help policy makers and practitioners make choices and learn how to improve What information is relevant What knowledge is valid and useful How can policy makers and practitioners establish a more productive division of labor based on their respective capabilities and limitations He cautions against the illusion that straight forward scientific approaches and data can be successfully applied to society's most complex problems While explaining why no single policy or intervention can solve complex problems he concludes that determination measurement analysis and adaptation based on evidence in specific situations can lead to significant improvement This positive even handed introduction to the use of research for problem solving concludes by suggesting emerging practices and approaches that can help scholars practitioners and policy leaders become more successful in reaching their fundamental goals

The Thinking Historian Eric W. Sager, 2025-01-27 What is history What are historians doing when we create our histories The need for answers is more urgent than ever We live in an era when history is often rejected or ignored and when all teachers of history confront formidable challenges In the culture of screen capitalism and social media historical knowledge is evaded in an expanding present minded consciousness How can history be defended and what is it that we are defending This book argues that history is a mode of thinking a form of imaginative reasoning with its own informal logic In non technical language and using examples from important works of history the book defines core elements in historical thinking These include contingency complexity temporality parts and wholes consilience perspectives analogy and abduction These elements are subsumed into the concept of imaginative reasoning The overall argument echoes the work of hermeneutic philosophers History is a disciplined imagination tempered and empowered by its forms of reasoning It embraces ethical imperatives that the historian has a duty to declare Equipped with such understanding historians may answer the many rejections of history and secure its place in our shared futures

Politics in the Laboratory Ira H. Carmen, 2004 Ira Carmen seeks a fusion of experimental biological research and political science research as he explores the important and controversial realm of human genomics Politics in the Laboratory takes a close look at the ethical legal social constitutional and political implications of modern biological research It addresses both biopolity issues and basic science including cloning embryonic stem cell investigations and experimentation involving the human germline from the perspective of a political scientist

Computational Philosophy of Science Paul Thagard, 1988 By applying research in artificial intelligence to problems in the philosophy of science Paul

Thagard develops an exciting new approach to the study of scientific reasoning This approach uses computational ideas to shed light on how scientific theories are discovered evaluated and used in explanations Thagard describes a detailed computational model of problem solving and discovery that provides a conceptually rich yet rigorous alternative to accounts of scientific knowledge based on formal logic and he uses it to illuminate such topics as the nature of concepts hypothesis formation analogy and theory justification

Economic Biology and Behavioral Economics Gerald A. Cory

Jr.,2022-12-30 Economic Biology and Behavioral Economics The Prophecy of Alfred Marshall explores the prophecy of Alfred Marshall the grand synthesizer of neoclassical economics that the Mecca of the economist lies in economic biology The book presents the proof of that prophecy through examination and establishment of the fundamental biological science necessary and then applying that science to the examination of current economic theory In doing so the book focuses primarily on the fundamentals of neoclassical economic theory which is the reigning theory and the general framework of which is taught as science in first courses in college economics These courses are at best an idealization if not an ideology of the discipline presented to fresh minds misleadingly as confirmed science The book examines the bases and the history of these idealizations points to the sources of their error from the biological perspective and suggests a path forward for the discipline Through this process the book demonstrates the power of the biological perspective anticipated by Marshall This book provides invaluable reading for anyone interested in the future of economics and economic theory and particularly those interested in behavioral economics and neuroeconomics

Dialectical

Social Science in the Age of Complexity Ian Trevor King,2001 This study places dialectical thinking theory and method on a solid scientific footing with respect to the contemporary sciences of holistic relationism and offers a competing even superior philosophy of social science to the mainstream version of positivistic behaviourism It also indicates ways in which a dialectical holistic relational social science will help to shape a more democratic humane style of politics and public policy It subjects mainstream social science to wholesale reorientation and in doing so offers a valid prescription for a post positivistic
