Toward Theology:

Toward a Theology of Struggle Eleazar S. Fernandez, 2009-02-01 The Theology of Struggle is a genuinely popular Filipino theology rooted in the history and culture of a people who have endured colonial oppression at the hands of Spain North America and Japan as well as neo colonialism and home grown dictatorship Because Christianity has played a role in assisting the history of oppression in the Philippines a theology of struggle must include a struggle in theology to wrest Christian symbols from the hands of the oppressors and return them to the poor This theology which is otherwise expressed in articles poems art and action receives its first systematic treatment in Toward a Theology of Struggle In Part One Fernandez establishes the historical and cultural context out of which the Theology of Struggle has emerged Part Two represents Fernandez's own constructive work in which he shows how a theology of struggle must address the quest for identity and peoplehood In Part Three Fernandez explores the question of theological method outlining the areas of convergence and distinction between the Theology of struggle and other Third World theologies as well as setting forth the distinctive challenge that this theology of the Philippines poses to the authority and dominance of Western theology as a whole

Does God Need the Church? Gerhard Lohfink, 2014-12-16 Are not all religions equally close to and equally far from God Why then the Church Gerhard Lohfink poses these questions with scholarly reliability and on the basis of his own experience of community in Does God Need the Church In 1982 Father Lohfink wrote Wie hat Jesus Gemeinde gewollt translated into English as Jesus and Community to show on the basis of the New Testament that faith is founded in a community that distinguishes itself in clear contours from the rest of society In that book he also described a sequence of events that moved directly from commonality to a community that was readily accessible to every group of people and was made legitimate by Jesus himself Only later did Father Lohfink learn within a new horizon of experience that such a description is not the way to community The story of the gathering of the people of God from Abraham until today never took place according to such a model Today Father Lohfink states that he would not write Wie hat Jesus Gemeinde gewollt the same way The situation of belief and believers has undergone a shift the question of the Church has become much more urgent Church life is declining and the religions are returning often in new guises In light of these shifts and the change in his own view of community Father Lohfink inquires in Does God Need the Church of Israel's theology Jesus praxis the experiences of the early Christian communities and of what is appearing in the Church today These inquiries lead to an amazing history involving God and the world a history that God presses forward with the aid of a single people and that always turns out differently from what they think and plan

Toward a Catholic Theology of Nationality Dorian Llywelyn, 2010-06-28 Nationality continues to be an important part of how people identify themselves and others Who am I is inseparable from the question Who and what are we Historically many nations have made use of the Bible and Christian notions to understand themselves and to justify their political ambitions Catholic theology however has never elaborated on a systematic treatment of nationality Dorian Llywelyn forges a new approach treating the nation as a form of culture He addresses some key questions How are the religious and national aspects of human identity connected What does Catholic doctrine have to say about nationality and nationalism Is there really such a thing as a Christian nation Is Catholicism compatible with patriotism Llywelyn s wide ranging book introduces the reader to contemporary approaches to nationality nationality national identity nationalism and patriotism Drawing from the insights of sociology history and anthropology he investigates the many ways in which nations and Christianity have intertwined and explores what scripture and twentieth century papal teaching have to say on the matter He provides an original Catholic theology of national belonging one which is based on the implications of the Incarnation Examining popular devotions to the Virgin Mary as national patroness and drawing from the metaphysical acumen of the medieval thinker John Duns Scotus Llywelyn argues for the theological value of nationality and proposes that global community and cultural and national diversity are mutually necessary values

Toward a Homiletical Theology of Promise David Schnasa Jacobsen,2018-04-17 Promise has a long pedigree in the history of Christian understandings of the gospel This volume gathers together leading homileticians to consider the breadth of its understanding today in light of the struggle to reconcile God's grace with God's justice Assuming that promise is a core sense of the gospel how does this relate to the variety of contexts in which homiletical theology is done In this final volume in the series six homileticians from a variety of contexts and perspectives try to move specifically toward a homiletical theology of promise as a way to articulate the central theological gift and task that is preaching the gospel today
