Shapiro, Alan J. Gross, 1981 Basic concepts of statistical models Concepts of statistical theory Model for measurement continuous case Models for measurement discrete case Empirical models Testing models assumptions Analysis of systems Methods of Information Geometry Shun-ichi Amari, Hiroshi Nagaoka, 2000 Information geometry provides the mathematical sciences with a new framework of analysis It has emerged from the investigation of the natural differential geometric structure on manifolds of probability distributions which consists of a Riemannian metric defined by the Fisher information and a one parameter family of affine connections called the alpha connections The duality between the alpha connection and the alpha connection together with the metric play an essential role in this geometry This kind of duality having emerged from manifolds of probability distributions is ubiquitous appearing in a variety of problems which might have no explicit relation to probability theory Through the duality it is possible to analyze various fundamental problems in a unified perspective The first half of this book is devoted to a comprehensive introduction to the mathematical foundation of information geometry including preliminaries from differential geometry the geometry of manifolds or probability distributions and the general theory of dual affine connections The second half of the text provides an overview of many areas of applications such as statistics linear systems information theory quantum mechanics convex analysis neural networks and affine differential geometry The book can serve as a suitable text for a topics course for advanced undergraduates and graduate students Statistical Models in Engineering Hahn GJ., 1967 A Selected Annotated Bibliography on the Analysis of Water Resource Systems, 1969 Nuclear Science Abstracts, 1974 NSA is a comprehensive collection of international nuclear science and technology literature for the period 1948 through 1976 pre

Statistical Models and Causal Inference David A. Freedman, 2009-11-23 David A Freedman presents here a definitive synthesis of his approach to causal inference in the social sciences He explores the foundations and limitations of statistical modeling illustrating basic arguments with examples from political science public policy law and epidemiology Freedman maintains that many new technical approaches to statistical modeling constitute not progress but regress Instead he advocates a shoe leather methodology which exploits natural variation to mitigate confounding and relies on intimate knowledge of the subject matter to develop meticulous research designs and eliminate rival explanations When Freedman first enunciated this position he was met with scepticism in part because it was hard to believe that a mathematical statistician of his stature would favor low tech approaches But the tide is turning Many social scientists now agree that statistical technique cannot substitute for good research design and subject matter knowledge This book offers an integrated presentation of Freedman's views

Statistical Models Anthony Christopher Davison, 2003 Models and likelihood are the backbone of modern statistics This 2003 book gives an integrated development of these topics that blends theory and practice intended for advanced undergraduate and graduate students researchers and practitioners Its breadth is unrivaled with sections on survival analysis missing data Markov chains Markov random fields point processes graphical models simulation and Markov chain Monte Carlo estimating functions asymptotic approximations local likelihood and spline regressions as well as on more standard topics such as likelihood and linear and generalized linear models Each chapter contains a wide range of problems and exercises Practicals in the S language designed to build computing and data analysis skills and a library of data sets to accompany the book are available over the Web
