Reading Death in Ancient Rome Mario Erasmo, 2008 In Reading Death in Ancient Rome Mario Erasmo considers both actual funerary rituals and their literary depictions in epic elegy epitaphs drama and prose works as a form of participatory theater in which the performers and the depictees of rituals engage in strategies to involve the viewer reader in the ritual process specifically by invoking and playing on their cultural associations at a number of levels simultaneously He focuses on the associative reading process the extent to which literary texts allude to funeral and burial ritual the narrative role played by the allusion to recreate a fictive version of the ritual and how the allusion engages readers knowledge of the ritual or previous literary intertexts Such a strategy can advance a range of authorial agendas by inviting readers to read and reread assumptions about both the surrounding Roman culture and earlier literature invoked through intertextual referencing By re defining their relation to the dead readers assume various roles in an ongoing communion with the departed Reading Death in Ancient Rome makes an important and innovative contribution to semiotic theory as applied to classical texts and to the emerging field of mortality studies It should thus appeal to classicists as well as to advanced undergraduate and graduate students in art history and archeology
