MASON GOODING

A movie poster for the film 'Under Fire'. The image shows two men, Dylan Sprouse and Mason Gooding, in a chaotic, debris-filled environment. Dylan Sprouse is in the foreground, wearing a dark jacket and holding a handgun, looking intently towards the left. Mason Gooding is behind him, also holding a handgun and looking towards the right. The background is filled with dust and debris, suggesting a recent explosion or battle. The title 'UNDER FIRE' is written in large, bold, orange letters at the bottom left.

Under Fire 1:

The One Best System David B. Tyack, 1974 The One Best System presents a major new interpretation of what actually happened in the development of one of America's most influential institutions. At the same time it is a narrative in which the participants themselves speak out: farm children and factory workers, frontier teachers and city superintendents, black parents and elite reformers. And it encompasses both the achievements and the failures of the system: the successful assimilation of immigrants, racism and class bias, the opportunities offered to some, the injustices perpetuated for others. David Tyack has placed his colorful, wide-ranging view of history within a broad new framework drawn from the most recent work in history, sociology, and political science. He looks at the politics and inertia, the ideologies and power struggles that formed the basis of our present educational system. Using a variety of social perspectives and methods of analysis, Tyack illuminates for all readers the change from village to urban ways of thinking and acting over the course of more than one hundred years.

Memory as Power Alex Tepperman, Paul Bleakley, 2025-01-27. Featuring a collection of works by scholars from across a variety of disciplines, this book outlines the principles of a critical historical criminology. For historical criminologists, this book provides a framework of how to engage with historical material in a way that is critical in its interrogation, instructive in terms of how the past impacts upon our current and future practice, and attentive to the dangers of presentism. For critical criminologists, this book highlights the potential benefits of looking to the past to inform our understanding of the critical issues we face in the current social, cultural, and political context in a purposeful, historically sensitive way. This remarkable volume aims to model how to practice a critical version of historical criminology that has implications for practice in the contemporary period. It does so by incorporating contributions that emphasize robust, high-quality historical research that nonetheless speaks to issues and problems of premium concern to present-minded critical criminologists, bridging a gap between the past and present through an operationalization of the past that allows readers to better understand the criminological concerns of the present. In this sense, it can be used pedagogically as a collection of works which model critical historical criminology and is thus of instructional use alongside its research contribution. Managing Sex in the U. S.

Military Beth Bailey, Alesha E. Doan, Shannon Portillo, Kara Dixon Vuic, 2022-05. The U.S. military is a massive institution, and its policies on sex, gender, and sexuality have shaped the experiences of tens of millions of Americans, sometimes in life-altering fashion. The essays in Managing Sex in the U.S. Military examine historical and contemporary military policies and offer different perspectives on the broad question: How does the U.S. military attempt to manage sex? This collection focuses on the U.S. military's historical and contemporary attempts to manage sex, a term that is in practice slippery and indefinite, encompassing gender and gender identity, sexuality and sexual orientation, and sexual behaviors and practices along with their outcomes. In each chapter, the authors analyze the military's evolving definitions of sex, sexuality, and gender, and the significance of those definitions to both the military and American society.
