Suburbia In Transition:

Suburbia in Transition Louis H. Masotti, Jeffrey K. Hadden, 1974 Suburbia in Transition Daniel P. Tasman, 1996

Degrowth in the Suburbs Samuel Alexander, Brendan Gleeson, 2018-09-21 This book addresses a central dilemma of the urban age how to make the vast suburban landscapes that ring the globe safe and sustainable in the face of planetary ecological crisis The authors argue that degrowth a planned contraction of economic overshoot is the only feasible principle for suburban renewal They depart from the anti suburban sentiment of much environmentalism to show that existing suburbia can be the centre ground of transition to a new social dispensation based on the principle of self limitation The book offers a radical new urban imaginary that of degrowth suburbia which can arise Phoenix like from the increasingly stressed cities of the affluent Global North and guide urbanisation in a world at risk This means dispensing with much contemporary green thinking including blind faith in electric vehicles and high density urbanism and accepting the inevitability and the benefits of planned energy descent A radical but necessary vision for the times Urban Sustainability Transitions Trivess Moore, Fjalar de Haan, Ralph Horne, Brendan James Gleeson, 2017-10-27 This book contributes to current debates regarding purposive transitions to sustainable cities providing an accessible but critical exploration of sustainability transitions in urban settings We have now entered the urban century which is not without its own challenges as discussed in the preceding book of this series Urbanization is accompanied by a myriad of complex and overlapping environmental social and governance challenges which increasingly call into question conventional market based responses and simple top down government interventions Faced with these challenges urban practitioners and scholars alike are interested in promoting purposive transitions to sustainable cities The chapters in this volume contribute to the growing body of literature on city scale transformative change which seeks to address a lack of consideration for spatial and urban governance dimensions in sustainability transitions studies and expand on the basis established in the preceding book Drawing on a range of perspectives and written by leading Australian and international urban researchers the chapters explore contemporary cases from Australia and locate them within the international context Australia is on the one hand representative of many OECD countries while on the other possessing a number of unique attributes that may serve to highlight issues and potentials internationally Australia is a highly urbanized country and because of the federal political structure and the large distances the five largest state capital cities have a relatively high degree of autonomy in governance even dominating the rest of their respective states and rural hinterlands to a certain extent This context suggests that Australian cases can provide interesting test tube perspectives on processes relevant to urban sustainability transitions worldwide This volume presents an extensive overview of theories concepts approaches and practical examples informed by sustainability transitions thinking offering a unique resource for all urban practitioners and scholars who want to understand and transition to sustainable urban futures

African American suburbanization during the 1970s What are the barriers that have slowed this process for so long Is black entry to the suburbs synonymous with integration To what extent does it contribute to convergence in the residential distributions of whites and blacks This careful and thorough study marshals evidence that black suburbanization offers less than full realization of the American Dream Homeownership in the United States is a source of security a sign of status a means of equity accumulation and a bond to the community The basic premise underlying The New Suburbanites is the preeminence of equal access Survey data collected for this analysis pertains to successful homebuyers whites and blacks who were able to negotiate safely the treacherous housing market conditions Specifically Robert W Lake draws from a unique survey of black and white homebuyers to assess the institutional and housing market barriers to black suburban homeownership How does racial discrimination add to the cost time and difficulty of housing search for black homebuyers What is the effect of discrimination on housing prices resale value and equity accumulation What is behind the complexity of white and black attitudes to suburban racial integration What is the perspective of the real estate agent the key market intermediary The book addresses each of these questions and concludes with a critique of present federal fair housing legislation and an assessment of policy implications
