

Topics for Group presentation assessment

The list below presents a range of academic and soft skills necessary for success in both academic and business environments. For their group presentations conducted in Session 12, students are to choose ONE of the skills as the key topic for research. Following this choice, a more specific presentation topic should be formulated by the students based on their research and target focus of the presentation, which should be reflected in the presentation outline submitted in Session 8.

For example, if students choose leadership topic, their Group presentation topic may be:

- a. The challenges of being a leader: University students' perspectives.
- b. What should you know about leadership styles?
- c. Person X: An exemplary case study of an ethical leader.
