Throughout this activity packet, we are going to look at the difference between FLEXIBLE thinking and RIGID thinking and why it is important for you to have flexible thoughts.

Think about a time when you had to deal with the change. What was the change, and how did you deal with it?

Learn about change and flexible thoughts

BECOMING A FLEXIBLE THINKER

There are some steps that you can follow to help you become a flexible thinker.

The steps are:

1. Stop for a moment.

2. Think positive thoughts.

3. Pick a calming strategy.

4. Imagine yourself doing the new change.

5. Agree to the new change.

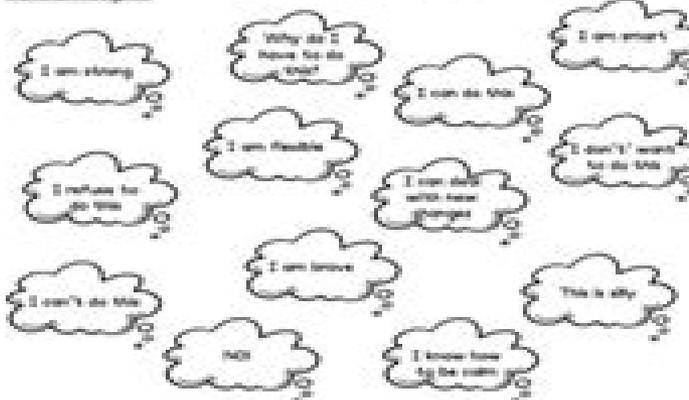

Each of these steps is more detail for when change happens.

HAVING FLEXIBLE THOUGHTS

The first step to having flexible thoughts when something changes is to Stop and think positive thoughts. Positive thoughts are important so they are a way to let yourself get rid of worries and negative thoughts that might be getting in your way. Positive thinking goes against rigid thinking and so is your first step to stop rigid thoughts and to allow your brain and body accept a 'new' change. Science has even taught us that by thinking positive thoughts, not only does it make us feel happy but those moments of happiness are also critical for opening your mind to explore and build the skills that become so valuable in other areas of your life" (James Clear, 2017).

Look at the thought bubbles below. Color the thoughts that are 'positive' and flexible thoughts.
