Thinking Through Philosophy:

Thinking through Philosophy Chris Horner, Emrys Westacott, 2000-09-21 Chris Horner and Emrys Westacott present a clear and accessible introduction to some of the central problems of philosophy through challenging and stimulating the reader to think beyond the conventional answers to fundamental questions. No previous knowledge is assumed and in lively and provocative chapters the authors invite the reader to explore questions about the nature of science, religion, ethics, politics, art, the mind, the self, knowledge, and truth. Each chapter includes inset boxes providing links to classic philosophy texts on the issues discussed. In addition, the book relates the adventure of philosophy to some of the key principles of critical thinking.

Thinking Through Poetry Marjorie Levinson, 2018-07-04 Thinking through Poetry Field Reports on Romantic Lyric pursues two goals. The title signals the contribution to debates about reading: Do we think through by means of with poems sympathetically elaborating their surfaces? Is this compatible with a second meaning: thinking through poems to their end, solving a problem, getting to its root, its deep truth? Third, can we square these surface and depth readings with a speculative philosophical criticism to which the poem carries us where through denotes a going beyond? All three meanings of through are in play throughout. The subtitle applies field first to Romantic studies since the 1980s, a field that this project reflects upon from beginning to end. Examples are drawn especially from Wordsworth but also from Coleridge and in assessing Romanticism's afterlife from Stevens. Field also characterizes the shift from a unitary to a field concept of form during that time span, a shift pursued through prolonged engagement with Spinoza. Field thus underscores the synthesis of form and history, the importance of analytic scale to that synthesis, and the displacement of entity-text by relation as the object of investigation. While the book historically connects early nineteenth-century intellectual trends to twentieth and twenty-first-century scientific revolutions, it focuses on introducing new models to literary criticism. Unlike accounts of the influence of science on literature or various literature X approaches (literature and ecology, literature and cognitive science), it constructs its object of inquiry in a way cognate with work in non-humanities disciplines, thus highlighting a certain unity to human knowledge. The claim is that specialists in literature should think the way distinguished scientists think, and vice versa.

Thinking Through Food Alexandra Plakias, 2018-11-30 This book offers a wide-ranging yet concise introduction to the many philosophical issues surrounding food production and consumption. It begins with discussions of the metaphysics, epistemology, and aesthetics of food, then moves on to debates about the ethics of eating animals, the environmental impacts of food production, and the role of technology in our food supply, before concluding with discussions of food access, health, and justice. Throughout, the author draws on cross-disciplinary research to engage with historical debates and current events.

Thinking Through Revelation Robert J. Dobie, 2019-01-09 Navigating the seemingly competing claims of human reason and divine revelation to truth is without a doubt one of the central problems of medieval philosophy. Medieval thinkers argued a whole gamut of positions on the proper relation of religious faith to human reason. Thinking Through Revelation attempts to ask deeper questions what possibilities for philosophical thought did divine revelation open up for medieval thinkers How did the contents of the sacred scriptures of Judaism Christianity and Islam put into question established philosophical assumptions But most fundamentally how did not merely the content of the sacred books but the very mode in which revelation itself is understood to come to us as a book sent down from on high as a covenant between God and his people or as incarnate person create or foreclose possibilities for the resolution of the philosophical problems that the Abrahamic revelations themselves raised
