Marchal, 2020 The letters of Paul are among the most commonly cited biblical texts in ongoing cultural and religious disputes about gender sexuality and embodiment Appalling Bodies reframes these uses of the letters by reaching past Paul toward other far more fascinating figures that appear before after and within the letters The letters repeat ancient stereotypes about women eunuchs slaves and barbarians in their Roman imperial setting each of these overlapping groups were cast as debased dangerous and complicated Joseph Marchal presents new ways for us to think about these dangers and complications with the help of queer theory Appalling Bodies juxtaposes these ancient figures against recent figures of gender and sexual variation in order to defamiliarize and reorient what can be known about both The connections between the marginalization and stigmatization of these figures troubles the history ethics and politics of biblical interpretation Ultimately Marchal assembles and reintroduces us to Appalling Bodies from then and now and the study of Paul s letters may never be the same

The Performance and Interrogation of 'Generic Lives' and Gendered Selves in the Confessional Poetry of John Berryman and Anne Sexton Elena Mertel, 2019-09-11 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2017 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1 3 University of Dusseldorf Heinrich Heine language English abstract This thesis aims to examine the interrogation and performance of generic lives and gendered selves in the poetry of John Berryman and Anne Sexton In doing so I will give answers to the following questions In how far did social norms influence the lyrical I s way of thinking and acting Or were those societal restrictions excluded from the isolated situation of the poem Are gender conventions more present in poems featuring a female persona Not more than 60 years ago North America was strongly biased with unrealistic gender roles Women were stereotyped as housewives whose greatest struggles were keeping husband and children satisfied the household and their good looking However thousands of women missed to meet those expectations and considered themselves as individual failures However not only women suffered from social etiquette that was imposed on them The excessive promotion of virility equally troubled many men Then in the 1960s there was a significant change Influenced by the radical formations of various citizen movements gender concepts were challenged not only in a political context but also within the arts For the first time after centuries poetry again dealt with political issues This was the time of the Beats and the Confessional Poets The latter group is often associated with poets such as John Berryman Robert Lowell Sylvia Plath and Anne Sexton The works of Berryman and Sexton will be examined in more depth Both of them used their poems to express their personal views on the conventions of the period What was intended to serve as a form of self therapy turned into poetic empowerment for many Americans who experienced similar circumstances but were too afraid to talk about it publicly In this respect Anne Sexton has often been considered as a precursor of following feminist movements The lyric of the male poets of the time however has mostly been ignored in this context Both poets were working during the 1950s and 60s both experienced socially imposed gender treatments both lived the generic life The expression refers to the seemingly predetermined lifestyle of these poets including parental difficulties in their childhood excessive alcohol and drug abuse mental disorders publicly displayed affairs as well as suicidal tendencies While Sexton s poetry continuously tackles the problem of gender conventions Berryman s remarks on the topic are rather subtle
