Is Globalization Over? Jeremy Green,2019-11-08 Looming trade wars and rising nationalism have stirred troubling memories of the 1930s Will history repeat itself Do we face the chaotic breakdown of the global economic system in the face of stagnation protectionism and political tumult Jeremy Green argues that although we face grave problems globalization is not about to end Setting today s challenges within a longer historical context he demonstrates that the global economy is more interconnected than ever before and the costs of undoing it high enough to make a complete breakdown unlikely Popular analogies between the 1930s and today are misleading But the governing liberal ideology of globalisation is changing It is mutating into a hard edged nationalism that defends free markets while reasserting sovereignty and strengthening borders This national liberalism threatens a much more dangerous disintegration fuelled by inequality and ecological crisis unless we radically rethink the international status quo This brilliantly original account of the discontents of globalization is a must read both for concerned citizens and students of global political economy

four decades West Africa has been experimenting regional economic integration but progress has been slow and without significant results Thus there is a need for a more favorable environment for overall trade The potential of ECOWAS in exploiting economies of scale and enhancing competition has been limited by a number of impediments such as trans border movement lack of monetary union political divide especially with francophone countries still holding allegiance to France under the system of assimilation protection of market by bigger States protectionism lack of institutional framework to champion the cause of economic integration and instability posing as security threat among other factors Analysts have suggested adopting and replicating the EU model holds the key to overcome these impediments A critical assessment of the EU model is made to ascertain which aspects of the EU model are adoptable and implementable for ECOWAS to be fully operational to bring about desired economic progress and development However the current EU crisis has given analysts a lot to think about and any other regional body like ASEAN that desires to pursue full integration Currently there are signs to show that some members want to secede from the union either voluntarily or by coercion On the basis of this development we outline certain measures as recommendations for ECOWAS
