Women in Development, 1985 Occupational Training of Women Under the Manpower Development and Training Act
United States. Office of Manpower, Automation and Training, Helen Wood, Benjamin Goldstein, 1964 This report evaluates the extent to which training programs established under the Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962 are meeting the needs of unemployed women Impact of Women in Food and Agricultural Development Sadiq, Sanusi Mohammed, Karunakaran, N., Makarfi, Ahmad Muhammad, Sharma, Shirish, 2024-08-09 In the field of global agricultural development the unequal recognition and acknowledgment of women's indispensable role in shaping the sector has become a pressing concern While women have long been the backbone of agricultural progress their multifaceted contributions often remain overlooked hindering the pursuit of sustainable and equitable solutions in an ever evolving world As we confront the pressing need for inclusivity and resilience in agriculture it becomes important to examine and celebrate the transformative influence of women Impact of Women in Food and Agricultural Development serves as an illuminating exploration delving into the uncharted roles that women play from tilling the soil to navigating complex supply chains and championing sustainable practices It is a compelling response to the urgent call for recognizing and addressing the challenges faced by women in this crucial sector Impact of Women in Food and Agricultural Development endeavors to shed light on the challenges women face the triumphs they achieve and the profound changes they instigate within the agricultural sector Drawing on a rich tapestry of stories data and expert insights this book seeks to provide a deep understanding of how women contribute to and are impacted by global agricultural development As we navigate an era marked by climate uncertainties technological advancements and the urgent need for sustainable practices understanding the dynamic role of women in agriculture is not just an academic pursuit but a crucial step towards building a more resilient and equitable future Through the lens of this book we embark on a journey that illuminates the untold stories of women who against various odds have become catalysts for change shaping the present and future of food and agricultural development Women, the Environment and Sustainable Development Rosi Braidotti, International Research and Training Institute for the Advancement of Women, 1994 There is a widespread perception that the development process is in a state of multiple crisis While the notion of sustainable development is supposed to address adequately its environmental dimensions there is still no agreed framework relating women to this new perspective This book is an attempt to present and disentangle the various positions put forward by major actors and to clarify the political and theoretical issues that are at stake in the debates on women the environment and sustainable development Among the current critiques of the western model of development which the authors review are the feminist analysis of Science itself and the power relations inherent in the production of knowledge Women Environment and Development WED Alternative Development Environmental Reformism and Deep Ecology Social Ecology and Ecofeminism In traversing this important landscape of ideas they show how they criticise the dominant developmental model at the various levels of epistemology theory and policy The authors also go further and put forward their own ideas as to the basic elements they consider necessary in constructing a paradigmatic shift emphasising such values as holism mutuality justice autonomy self reliance sustainability and peace This unique work is a signally useful contribution to clarifying thinking on a topic with immense implications for all women Publisher s description
