comprehensive guide to a student's project. It shows that when planning a qualitative research proposal, researchers should adopt an approach where they ask themselves the following four questions: What research paradigm informs my approach to my research area? What theoretical perspective do I choose within the paradigm? What methodology do I choose? What methods are most appropriate? Including examples of the write-up of two central types of research projects: studies on participants' perspectives on phenomena and studies on how participants manage or cope with phenomena, the book outlines five research proposals to illustrate ways in which these two central types can be varied and applied when engaging in five other types of studies: namely, policy studies, life history studies, retrospective interactionist, longitudinal studies, and interactionist historical studies and problem-focused studies.

Uta Barth Arpad Kovacs, 2024-04-23 This retrospective of the photographer Uta Barth traces her use of the camera to explore both how and what we see. Los Angeles-based contemporary artist Uta Barth b. 1958 has spent her decades-long career exploring the complexities and limits of human and mechanical vision. At first, her photographs appear to be deceptively simple depictions of everyday objects: light filtering through a window, tree branches bereft of leaves, a sparsely appointed domestic interior. But these images, visually spare yet conceptually rigorous, emerge from her investigation of sight perception, light, and time. In this richly illustrated monograph, curator Arpad Kovacs and contributors Lucy Gallun and Jeremy Gilbert Rolfe chart Barth's career path and discuss her most significant series, revealing how she has rejected the primacy of a traditional photographic subject and instead called attention to what is on the periphery. The book includes previously unpublished bodies of work made early in her career that add much to our understanding of this important artist. Also included is Barth's most recent work from dawn to dusk, an ambitious commission marking the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Getty Center.
