The Responsive Environment Larry D. Busbea, 2020-01-21 How new conceptions of human environment interaction became central to design theories and practices in the 1970s At the end of the 1960s new models of responsiveness between humans and their environments had a profound impact on theories and practices in architecture design art technology media and the sciences The resulting initiatives design philosophies art installations architectural projects exhibitions publications and symposia sought to bring together insights from biology systems theory psychology and anthropology with modernist legacies of total design In The Responsive Environment Larry D Busbea takes up this concept of environment as an object and method of design at the height of its aesthetic technical and discursive elaboration Exploring emerging paradigms of environmental perception patterning and control as developed by Gregory Bateson Edward T Hall Wolf Hilbertz Gyrgy Kepes Marshall McLuhan Nicholas Negroponte Paolo Soleri and others he shows how living space itself was reimagined as a domain capable of modification through input from its newly sensitized inhabitants The Responsive Environment intercuts the development of new ideas about environmental awareness with case studies of specific architecture and design projects for responsive environments Throughout Busbea connects these theories and practices to the contemporary obsession with smart things responsive technologies intelligent environments biomimetic materials and digital atmospherics Healthy Cities Namir Khan, Willem H. Vanderburg, 2001 Modern cities can be designed to constitute a more supportive environment for a great many activities provide a more livable habitat and reduce the burden imposed on the biosphere They can be made healthier in terms of the definition by World Health Organization and more sustainable by means of new and emerging preventive approaches Healthy Cities focuses on those preventive approaches that can make cities healthier and more sustainable This book as well as the two companion volumes Sustainable Energy and Sustainable Production is the result of a twelve year research project carried out at the Center for Technology and Social Development at the University of Toronto The research findings led to the development of a new conceptual framework and strategy aimed at converting technological and economic growth into development that would gradually become more sustainable
