Parliament. House of Commons, 1914

The New Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature: Volume 2, 1660-1800 George Watson, Ian R. Willison, 1971-07-02 More than fifty specialists have contributed to this new edition of volume 2 of The Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature The design of the original work has established itself so firmly as a workable solution to the immense problems of analysis articulation and coordination that it has been retained in all its essentials for the new edition The task of the new contributors has been to revise and integrate the lists of 1940 and 1957 to add materials of the following decade to correct and refine the bibliographical details already available and to re shape the whole according to a new series of conventions devised to give greater clarity and consistency to the entries The Talk of the Town Ann C.

Dean,2007-07 This study argues that in eighteenth century Britain the public sphere was a figure of speech created by juxtaposed images of more limited local and particular arenas of discussion In letters newspapers and books eighteenth century British writers described the public qualities of three different spaces court coffeehouse and meeting Writers referred to the proliferation of these social spaces describing multiple coffeehouses drawing rooms and meetings among which the customary language of each was circulated in repeated conversations and printed newspapers These multiple references created a set of interrelated competing and mutually defining metaphors and figurations figurative public spheres Identifying the relations between these metaphors requires work in an archive that crosses the boundaries between court coffeehouse and Parliament and between manuscript and print By following figures from one medium to another and by examining the contexts in which they were used it is possible to see a social imaginary emerging from the juxtapositions between them Ann C Dean is Associate Professor of English at the University of Southern Maine

The De Coverley Papers, From 'The Spectator' Joseph Addison,Eustace Budgell,Richard Sir Steele,2019-11-21 The De Coverley Papers excerpted from the esteemed eighteenth century periodical The Spectator presents a tapestry of early modern English society manners and politics through the lens of fictional Sir Roger de Coverley This anthology showcases a rich mosaic of literary styles ranging from satire to moral essays The blend of informal narratives with socially astute observations not only captivates modern readers but also provides them with a vivid snapshot of early 18th century life Standout pieces entice with their engaging portrayals of human character and social interactions serving as both literary treasures and historical artifacts The anthology is a collaborative work of influential men of letters from the Augustan Age Joseph Addison Sir Richard Steele and Eustace Budgell These writers pivotal in shaping English prose and journalism imbue the collection with their distinctive wit charm and moral undercurrents Their efforts were at the forefront of the burgeoning periodical literature of the time embracing themes of morality character and societal norms By weaving together their insights they offer an unparalleled opportunity to appreciate the cultural and literary dynamism of the period This collection is highly recommended to readers eager to navigate the interplay of multiple perspectives exploring the intricacies of an evolving literary landscape It provides educational value through its exploration of the intersection between morality society and early journalism Moreover discovering these voices allows readers to engage in a historical dialogue understanding how each contributor s vision adds depth to our grasp of the era Dive into this volume for its intellectual richness and the enduring legacy of its narratives within the scope of English literature

Making Space Public in Early Modern Europe Angela Vanhaelen,Joseph P. Ward,2013-04-26 Broadening the conversation begun in Making Publics in Early Modern Europe 2009 this book examines how the spatial dynamics of public making changed the shape of early modern society The publics visited in this volume are voluntary groupings of diverse individuals that could coalesce through the performative uptake of shared cultural forms and practices The contributors argue that such forms of association were social productions of space as well as collective identities Chapters explore a range of cultural activities such as theatre performances travel and migration practices of persuasion the embodied experiences of lived space and the central importance of media and material things in the creation of publics and the production of spaces They assess a multiplicity of publics that produced and occupied a multiplicity of social spaces where collective identity and voice could be created discovered asserted and exercised Cultural producers and consumers thus challenged dominant ideas about just who could enter the public arena greatly expanding both the real and imaginary spaces of public life to include hitherto excluded groups of private people The consequences of this historical reconfiguration of public space remain relevant especially for contemporary efforts to meaningfully include the views of ordinary people in public life
