Studies In Austronesian Linguistics:

Studies in Austronesian Linguistics Richard McGinn,1988 This volume consists of seventeen articles by scholars including Robert Blust Paul Hopper A L Becker Sarah Bell J C Catford Talmy Giv n J W M Verharr and John U Wolff Tagalog Cebuano Ilokano Chamorro Malay Old Malay Javanese Old Javanese Indonesian Niases Loni and Niuean are some of the languages discussed in the study The essays explore the issues of ergativity in Western Austronesian languages historical morphology phonology phonetics and morphophonemics Studies in Austronesian Linguistics Richard McGinn,1987

Language and Text in the Austronesian World Aleksandr Konstantinovich Ogloblin,2008 The Austronesians Peter Bellwood,James J. Fox,Darrell Tryon,2006-09-01 The Austronesian speaking population of the world are estimated to number more than 270 million people living in a broad swathe around half the globe from Madagascar to Easter Island and from Taiwan to New Zealand The seventeen papers in this volume provide a general survey of these diverse populations focusing on their common origins and historical transformations The papers examine current ideas on the linguistics prehistory anthropology and recorded history of the Austronesians Comparative Studies in Austronesian Linguistics Nancy Lewis Kleiber,1967 Proceedings of the Seventh International Conference on Austronesian Linguistics Cecilia Odé,1997 From the contents On the changing context of Austronesian historical linguistics George W Grace Word final nasal in Malay dialects Ajid Che Kob Moklen Moken phonology mainland or insular Southeast Asian typology Michael D Larish The problem of the aspectual classification of Indonesian verbs Agus Salim Split ergativity in the Nelemwa language Isabelle Brill The Many Faces of Austronesian Voice Systems I Wayan Arka,Malcolm Ross,2005 The Ninth International Conference on Austronesian Linguistics and the Fifth International Conference on Oceanic Linguistics were both held at The Australian National University in Canberra during January 2002 Rather than publish a single very diverse collection of conference papers the organisers favoured a series of smaller compilations on specific topics One such volume on Austronesian historical phonology has already been published by Pacific Linguistics as Issues in Austronesian historical phonology by John Lynch The present volume represents another such compilation It contains an introduction by the editors and ten papers on voice in Austronesian languages which provide both fresh data and some new perspectives on old problems The papers touch on the many faces of Austronesian voice systems ranging geographically from Teng on Puyuma in Taiwan to Otsuka on Tongan typologically from voice in agglutinative languages in Taiwan and the Philippines to voice in isolating languages Arka and Kosmas on Manggarai and Donohue on Palu e and in approach from Clayre s areal historical survey of Kelabitic languages in Borneo to single language studies of voice like Davies on Madurese Quick on Pendau and the Andersens on Moronene Katagiri and Kaufman each take a fresh look at an aspect of Tagalog voice Formal Issues in Austronesian Linguistics I. Paul,V. Phillips,Lisa Travis,2013-03-09 Austronesian languages have long raised interesting questions for generative theories of syntax and morphology The papers in this volume encompass some of these traditional questions and place them in newer theoretical contexts Some of the papers also address new issues which add to our understanding of members of this language family on one side and the nature of linguistic theories on the other There are three broad issues that re occur throughout the volume the role and analysis of verbal morphology the nature of the subject or the topic in these languages and the interaction of syntax and specificity The papers in this volume show that as formal theories become more precise a wider range of language data can be captured and as the inventory of language data grows the accuracy of formal linguistic theories improves

Chamic and Beyond Anthony Grant,Paul Sidwell,2005 A collection of papers dealing with issues in the Mainland Austronesian Languages Chamic Acehnese and Moken Moklen not a single genetic sub grouping but a number of related languages that have undergone parallel typological restructuring away from their Austronesian heritage converging on a type that places them on the southern periphery of the broader Mainland Southeast Asian Linguistic Area In prehistoric times speakers of these languages migrated to the Asian mainland from insular Southeast Asia Over many years of independent development plus prolonged contact with mainland languages they have shifted typologically particularly towards reduced word structure increased phoneme inventory and more isolating syntax The emphasis of the papers is on historical change particularly in respect of lexical borrowings and the evolution of phonological systems

TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS is a series of books that open new perspectives in our understanding of language The series publishes state of the art work on core areas of linguistics across theoretical frameworks as well as studies that provide new insights by building bridges to neighbouring fields such as neuroscience and cognitive science TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS considers itself a forum for cutting edge research based on solid empirical data on language in its various manifestations including sign languages It regards linguistic variation in its synchronic and diachronic dimensions as well as in its social contexts as important sources of insight for a better understanding of the design of linguistic systems and the ecology and evolution of language TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS publishes monographs and outstanding dissertations as well as edited volumes which provide the opportunity to address controversial topics from different empirical and theoretical viewpoints High quality standards are ensured through anonymous reviewing

Perspectives on information structure in Austronesian languages Sonja Riesberg,Asako Shiohara , Atsuko Utsumi ,2018 Information structure is a relatively new field to linguistics and has only recently been studied for smaller and less described languages This book is the first of its kind that brings together contributions on information

structure in Austronesian languages Current approaches from formal semantics discourse studies and intonational phonology are brought together with language specific and cross linguistic expertise of Austronesian languages The 13 chapters in this volume cover all subgroups of the large Austronesian family including Formosan Central Malayo Polynesian South Halmahera West New Guinea and Oceanic The major focus though lies on Western Malayo Polynesian languages Some chapters investigate two of the largest languages in the region Tagalog and different varieties of Malay others study information structural phenomena in small underdescribed languages The three overarching topics that are covered in this book are NP marking and reference tracking devices syntactic structures and information structural categories and the interaction of information structure and prosody Various data types build the basis for the different studies compiled in this book Some chapters investigate written texts such as modern novels cf Djenar s chapter on modern standard Indonesian or compare different text genres such as for example oral narratives and translations of biblical narratives cf De Busser s chapter on Bunun Most contributions however study natural spoken speech and make use of spoken corpora which have been compiled by the authors themselves The volume comprises a number of different methods and theoretical frameworks Two chapters make use of the Question Under Discussion approach developed in formal semantics cf the chapters by Latrouite Shiohara Riester Riesberg et al apply the recently developed method of Rapid Prosody Transcription RPT to investigate native speakers perception of prosodic prominences and boundaries in Papuan Malay Other papers discuss theoretical consequences of their findings Thus for example Himmelmann takes apart the most widespread framework for intonational phonology ToBI and argues that the analysis of Indonesian languages requires much simpler assumptions than the ones underlying the standard model Arka Sedeng ask the question how fine grained information structure space should be conceptualized and modelled e g in LFG Schnell argues that elements that could be analysed as topic and focus categories should better be described in terms of packaging and do not necessarily reflect any pragmatic roles in the first place

Comparative Austronesian Dictionary Darrell T. Tryon, 1995 Volumes in the Trends in Linguistics Documentation series focus on the presentation of linguistic data The series addresses the sustained interest in linguistic descriptions dictionaries grammars and editions of under described and hitherto undocumented languages All world regions and time periods are represented

Linguistic Change and Reconstruction Methodology Philip Baldi, 2011-06-01 No detailed description available for Linguistic Change and Reconstruction Methodology

Issues in Austronesian Historical Phonology John Dominic Lynch, 2003 The Ninth International Conference on Austronesian Linguistics and the Fifth International Conference on Oceanic Linguistics were both held at The Australian National University in Canberra during Januar 2002 Rather than a single very diverse collection of conference papers the conference organisers favoured a series of smaller compilations on specific topical areas This volume represents such a compilation and contains ten papers in the area of Austronesian historical phonology
